HISTORY OF REGINA

Cardinal Mooney had a dream. He envisioned two separate and independent institutions for the education of young men and women. Half of the Cardinal's dream materialized in September 1955 – Notre Dame High School for boys. A year later, in September of 1956, Regina High School for girls was completed; thus, fulfilling the aspirations of Cardinal Mooney.

Regina itself was not completed, however. The school ended with room 108. Today, Regina is a total school, with four counselling rooms, three offices (principal, assistant principal, and business), and thirty classrooms. A library with an audio-visual room, a workroom, and a smaller teachers' library, promotes independent study. Fully equipped science rooms help to mold minds. The home economics and sewing rooms provide experience in domestic training. Two typing rooms shape secreterial skills; while a language lab opens lives to foreign cultures and voices. The gymnasium, chapel, and cafeteria were added by 1960, along with rooms beyond room 108. In 1966, an auditorium with a seating capacity of one thousand two hundred, finished the building of Regina High School.

In June, 1961, the Accrediting Agency of the University of Michigan approved Regina High School. Later, in April of 1966, the school became a member of the North Central Association for Secondary Schools. This comfirmed the academic excellence of Regina.

Regina High School's philosophy of education is adopted from an encyclical of Pope Pius XI. The outcome of Christian education is a woman of character. Education is the process of building a thinking, feeling human who will seek to elevate and regulate life.

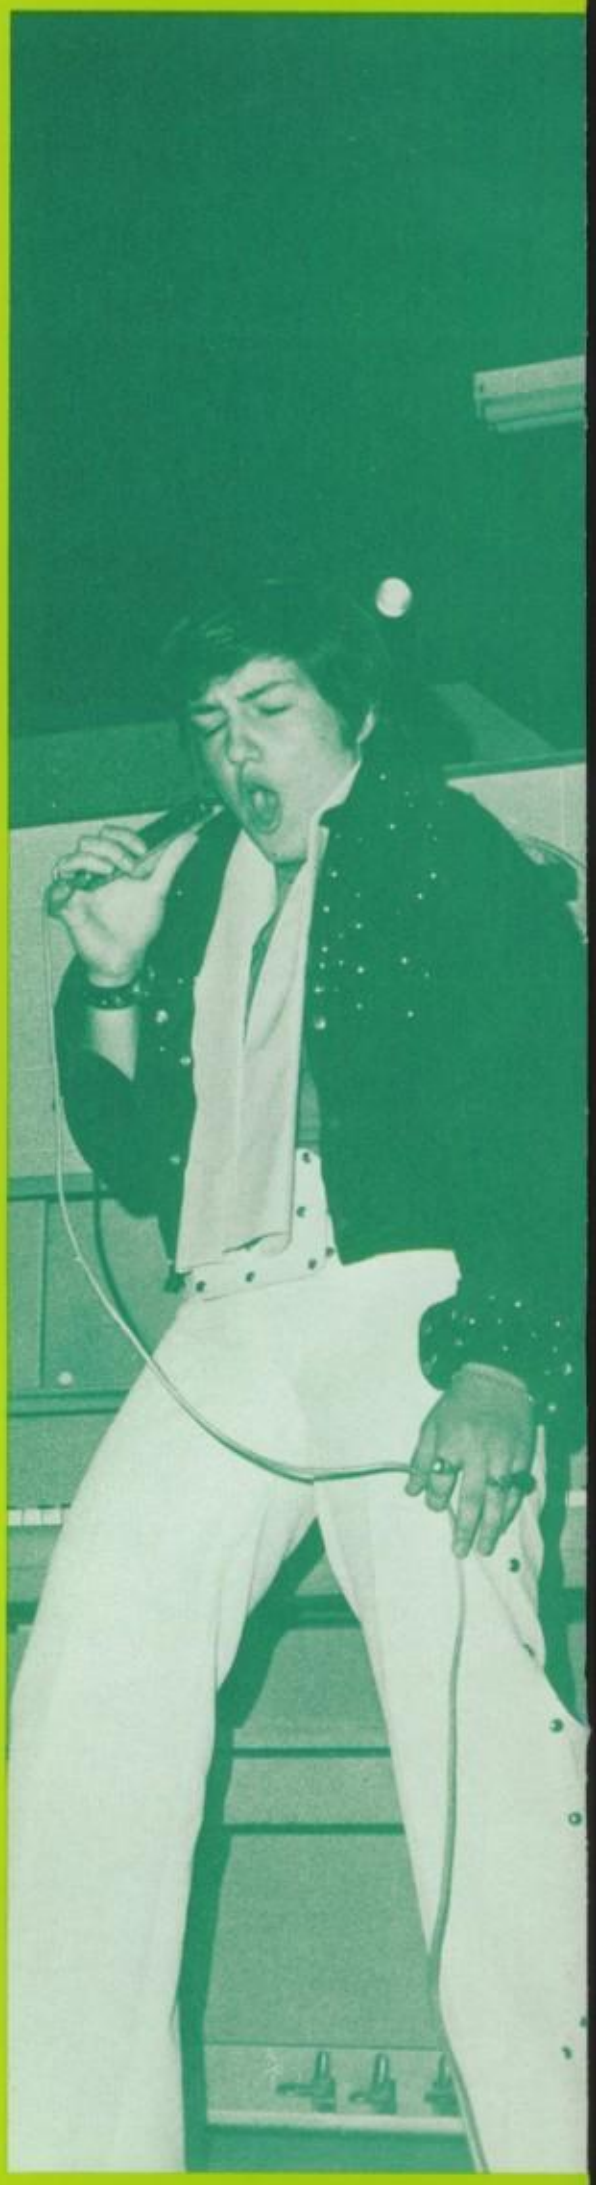
The collage on the opposite page depicts various important moments in Regina's past: Ground breaking ceremony, Dedication of the school, Regina's first principal and some faculty from its early years, and a May Crowning with some "pioneer" Reginites. These pictures were obtained through the generosity of Sister Mary Thaddea, and with great appreciation we have been able to take a glimpse into the past. Pictures from the past on preceeding pages were also from Sister, along with the "Crowns" of 1957-1960.

This Twentieth Anniversary Edition of the Crown is dedicated to the Class of 1977, and with them we begin the tradition of making the Introduction Section in the senior colors. Forest Green and Lime Green are the colors of this year's seniors.

TIONS 2M2 CU RELLE KEEL

"Spirit Week, saddle shoes, blue and white, and dances. Different styles and faces, but mainly the same ol' Regina. That's how I see 1957, when it all began. Almost twenty years have gone by, and I often sit and wonder what it was like then. Imagine yourself in a brand new school, wearing a unique uniform, and going crazy over the all-boy school next door. Basically, I'm sure the girls then felt the same joys and sadness that we do. Maybe time does not really change feelings . . ."

–Pam Darge



"Now we are reflecting on twenty years ago. Can you picture yourself here in 1957? Can you picture yourself twenty years from now? Twenty years from now, people will be sitting in these seats, just like we are today. But they will be so different–we will be so old. In 1957, the girls probably wondered what things would be like today. Reflect on the past, and dream of the future. That's what we all do. Hold your head high, and grasp what you can. Look back on your past and reflect on those special moments, for you can never bring them back . . ."

–Danielle Daldine

The past shadows today.
Sometimes, yesterdays are closer than the moments that are passing.
Tomorrow's dreams fade
so far away,
When reflecting on the influence of past days.
Although, the passage of the years has brought some decay.
Remembering those who've gone before binds
all generations.
People have come and gone, through the process
time has arranged;
And each has left his mark in passing.
Consider, that nothing
has changed,
Though the shuffle of people has widely ranged.
The actual difference is solely in the faces and unfamiliar names.
As always, there has remained a "Class Clown";
A brilliant scholar
haunting the library;
A mousey introvert
who has seldom smiled,
living to frown;
Or a star athlete that
can never be kept down.
Reflections of a school are reflections of many hearts.
The past is merely a reflection of the present's love, and the future's hopes.

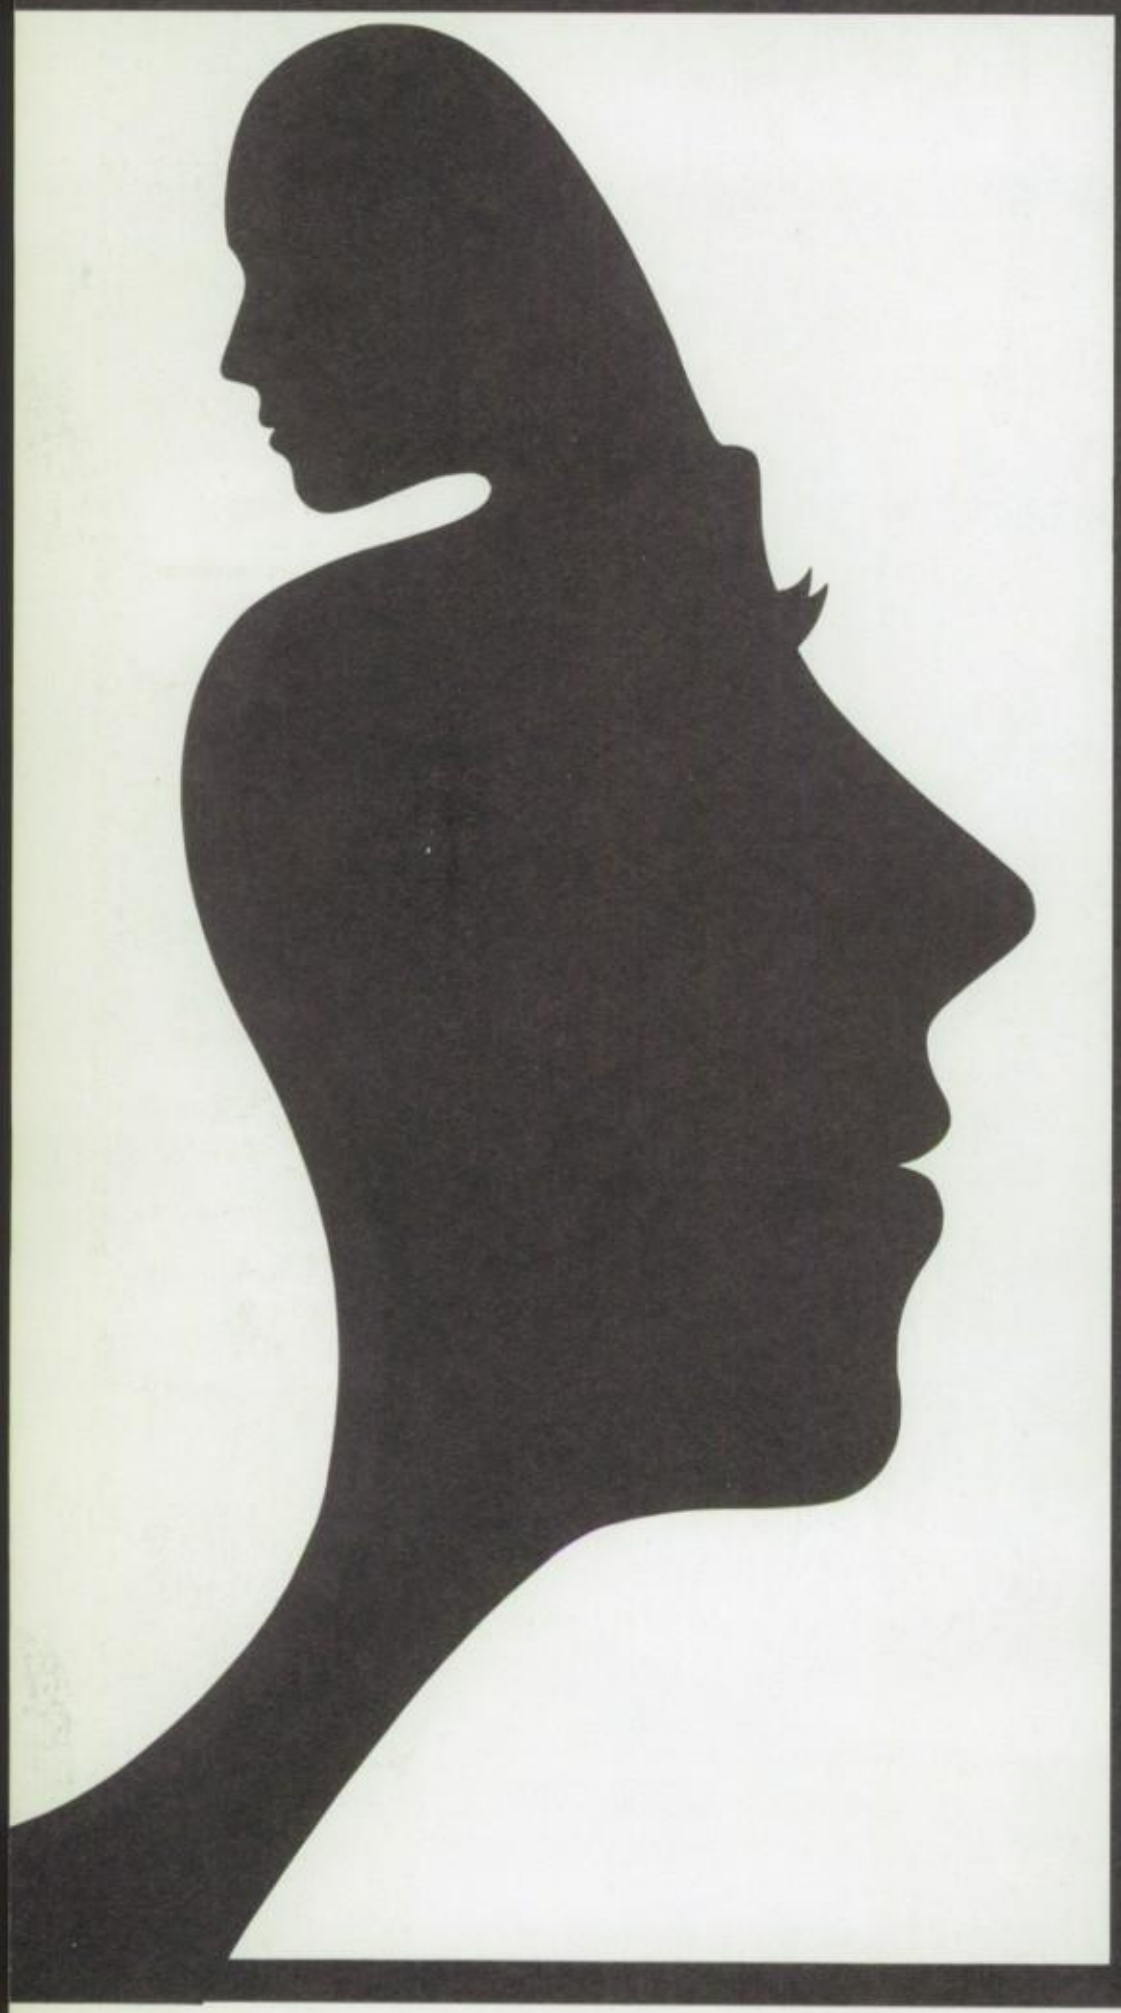
GRADUATION

Twenty years have flown by,
While memories will fade and die.
Yet through the mist of faded places,
Glow memories of well known faces.
The crowded halls now come to view,
The saddle shoes all bright and new.
Freshman voices fill the air,
Confusion masks they all do wear.
"Through all my years before, I know,
to look for friends where'ere I go.
I've turned the page and now I see,
A whole new world awaits for me."
But freshman year is soon to pass,
And now evolves the Sophomore class.
Sophomore day will soon arrive,
Toward unity the class will strive.
They choose their colors, poem, and song,
The bonds they've tied have now grown strong.

The sun will set, new dreams will rise,
To shine the light in Junior eyes.
Unity, through love, they bring,
Reflecting this in their class ring.
And when Harvest rolls around
Their social life is also bound.
Excitement fills the night with fun,
And many hearts unite as one.
Reflections of a worthwhile world.

Through Senior minds they now are hurled.
It seems as though each one will age,
As they take those steps across the stage.
For once they exit through the door,
A new leaf they must turn once more.
Through teary eyes they turned and stared,
They mirrored love from those who cared.
Into the love Regina sends,
The greatest love we have,
our friends!

–Michelle Zambetis



MONDAY

Monday through Friday
Listening for the 2:15 bell,
Teachers educating,
  students talking.
A nun in the bookstore.
Studying for endless days,
Yesterday's minutes are reflections of today.

Any day in school
Praying for a snowstorm,
Phones ringing,
  Administration working,
A scooter rushes by,
Faces didn't stay the same
In today's reflections of a long time ago.

Every day in school
Enjoying every bit of life,
Freshmen coming,
  Seniors going,
A memory's relections slips
  into view.
Somehow, merely you . . .

–Charity Anne Dorgan

Administration is teamwork!

There are many sides to an Administration Team. There is their serious, efficient, day-to-day hard work side. Sometimes this side is accompanied by such strange symptoms as nagging headaches, backaches, rising voices, and yes . . . even smiles! But the other side is more interesting. How about, "Sr. Leanne, Chief Grass Cutter?" Few people have seen our versatile principal happily cutting grass around her mother's home, but word certainly gets around. Not to be outdone, the Assistant Principal "doubles" as Freshman English teacher and "Resident Artist and Creative Person." Brochures, posters, and any type of artistic endeavor is graced by Sr. Hyacinth's flair.

ABOVE: Expressing her motto on the outdoor sign to the community, Sister Leanne lets everyone know how she thinks Regina will succeed in 1977.
TOP RIGHT: Regina's greatest "prize", Sr. Hyacinth, joins the other trophies in the lobby showcase.

TOP: Sr. Berchmans rings that important bell to signal the end or beginning of a period.
RIGHT: Making sure that each teacher receives the proper mail is Sr. Symphorose's duties.

Confused? There are people to help

Did you ever know where you wanted to go, but are not quite sure how to get there? Or maybe you're just not sure where you want to go, but you know you have to go somewhere? Maybe you need someone to give you a push in the right direction. Is there someone who knows just what Regina has to offer and what you should take to help you later in life? That's the job of our Guidance Counselors. They are four people who are unique in their own ways, so there is always someone to feel comfortable talking with.

Sister Florence Mary, the Chairman of the Guidance Department, says that the objective of the Guidance Department is mainly to help the students understand, accept, and utilize their abilities, aptitudes, and interests in relation to their aspirations.

NOTE: As of Dec. 1, Sr. Berchmans replaced Sr. Florence as Senior Counselor.

Stratford, Shakespeare expresses many talents

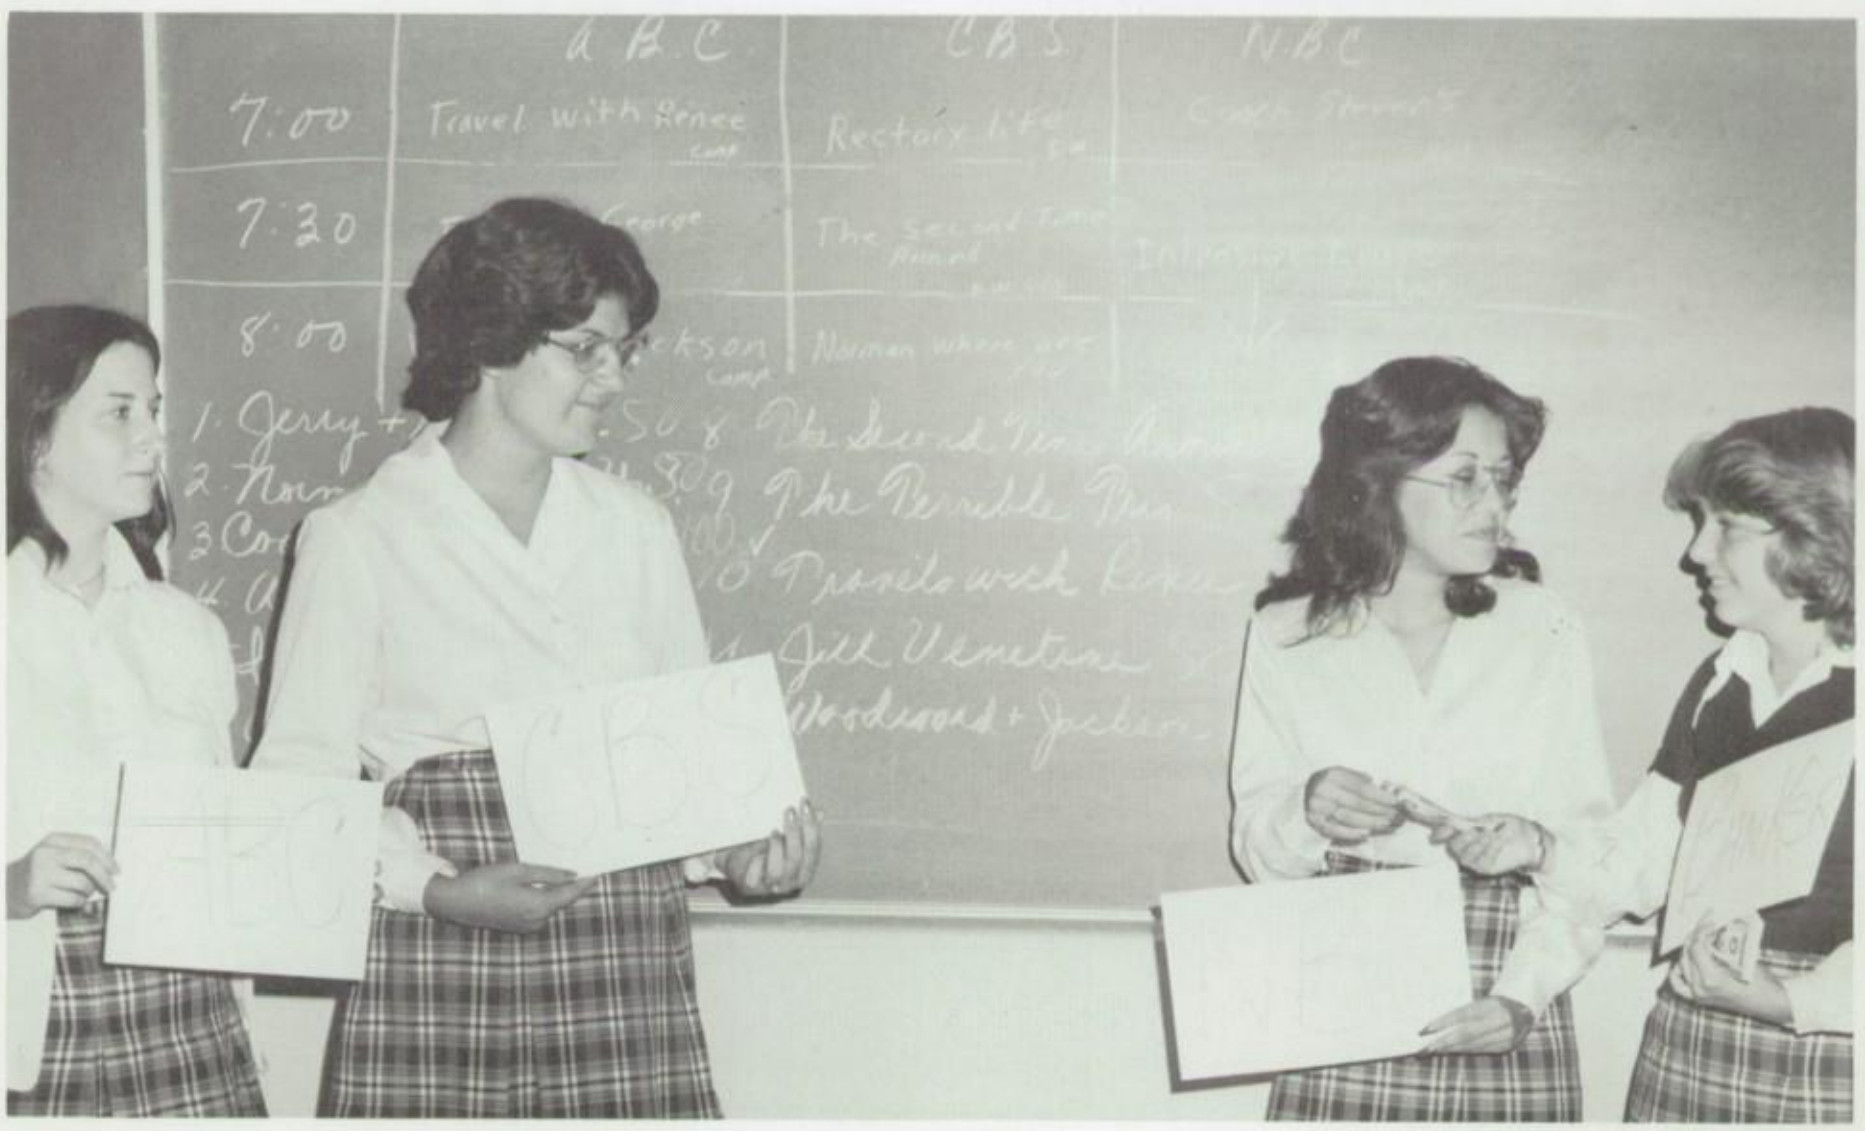
When you hear the word English what do you think of? What's it mean to you as an individual?

According to the Thorndike-Barnhart dictionary, it is the language of England also spoken by Canada, the United States, New Zealand, and Australia.

To the students at Regina, it has many different meanings. A trip to Stratford, performing a Shakespeare play, putting together the school yearbook, viewing films of today and the past, and learning to write poetry and short fiction are just a few examples.

The instructors in the English Department hope to encourage each student to be creative, and realize the worth of their own ideas and talents.

Now you know that to the students and teachers at Regina, English is more than a language.



LEFT: Michele Karam, Lisa Woolworth and Annette Hendrix pose all in costume for their performance of the "Tempest" in the Shakespeare class.

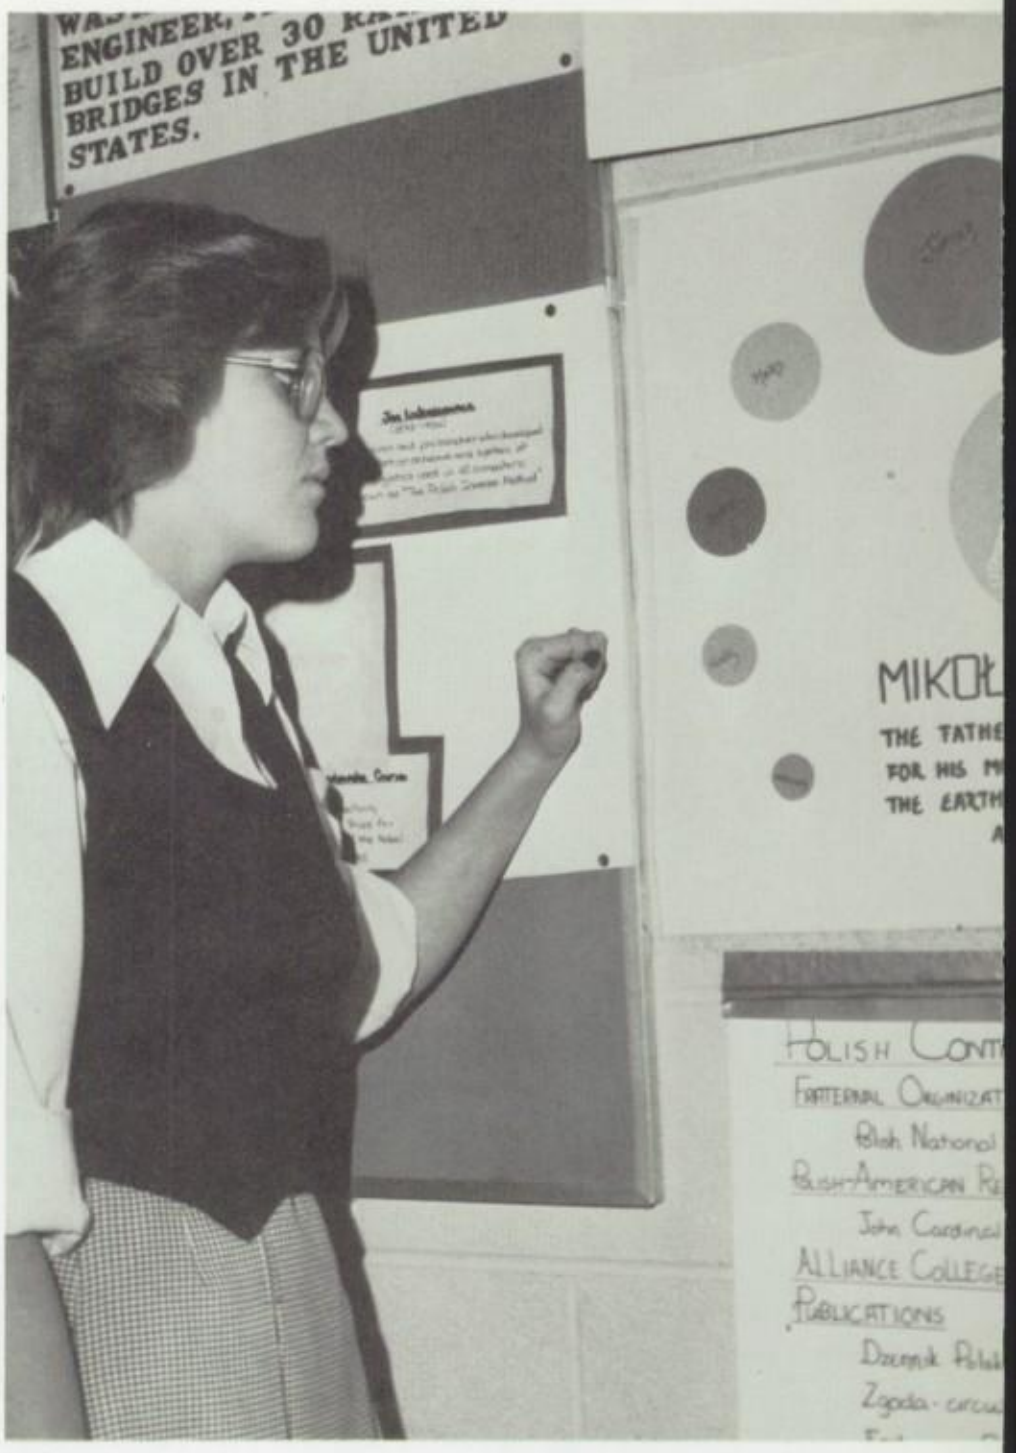
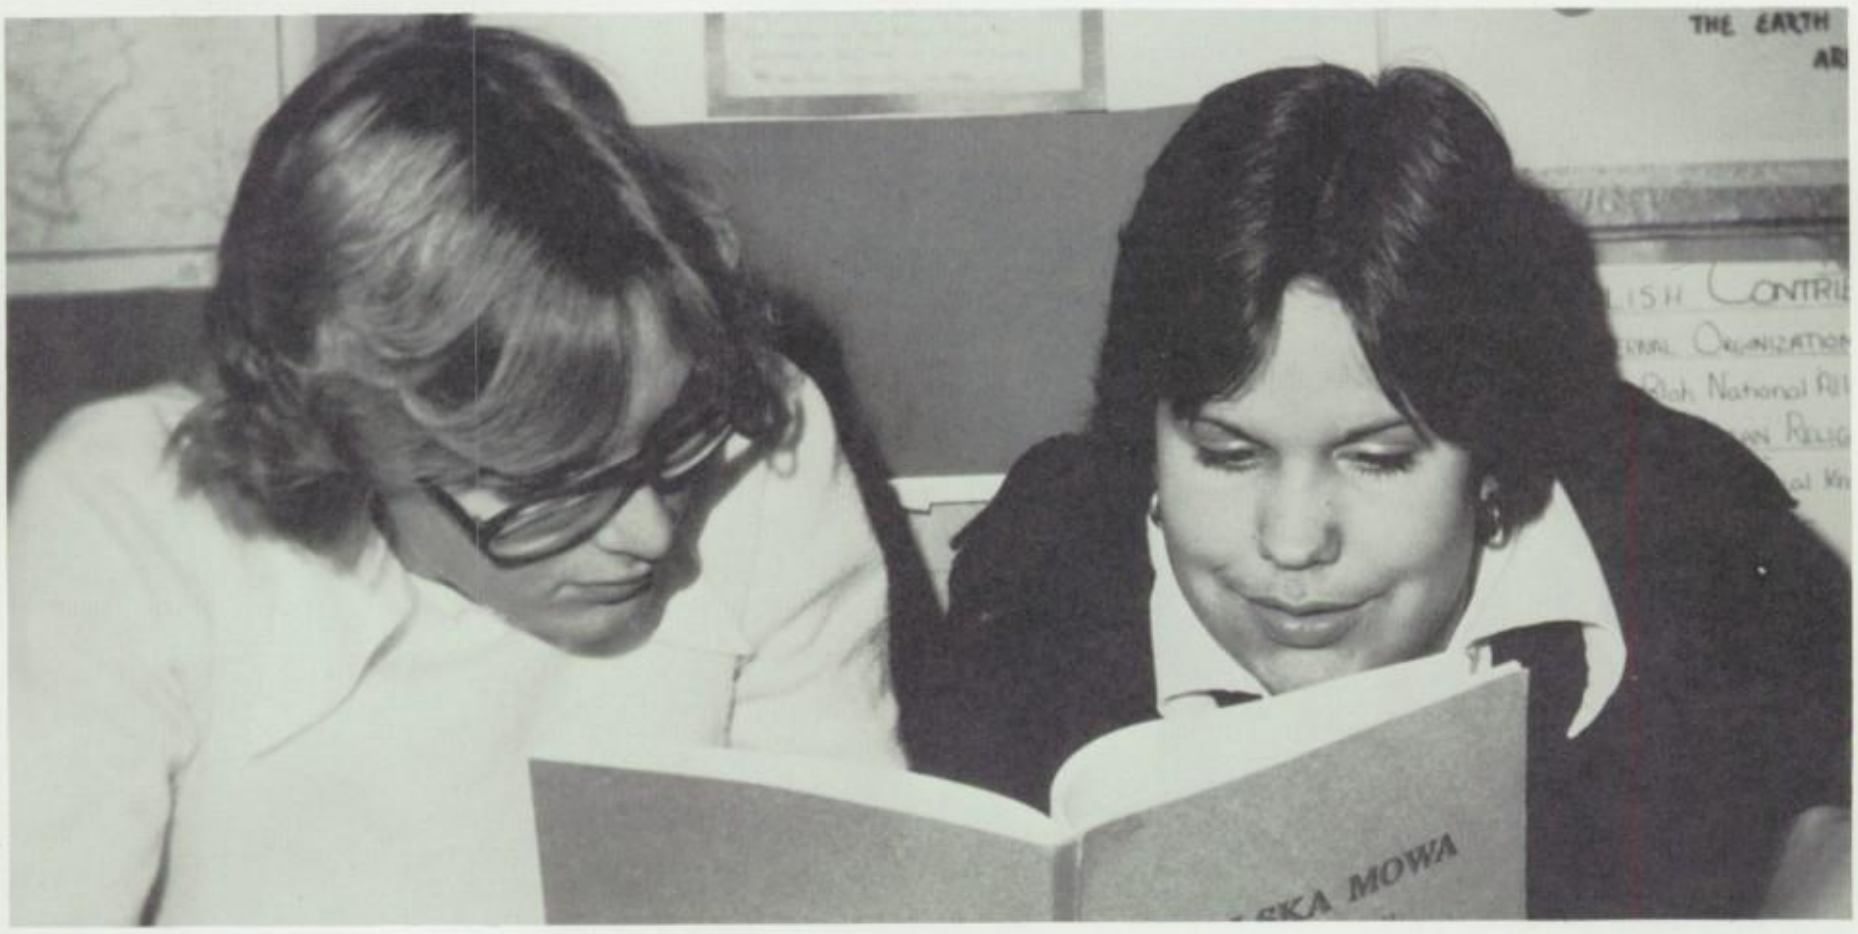
At Regina, you travel all around the world

The Foreign Language department of Regina High School consists of more than just Reginites. It also consists of Notre Dame students. Reginites say "having guys in the classes keeps us awake and aware of what's going on, especially in the morning."

The Foreign Language Department has quite a lot planned for the year. The French class has an exciting trip to France planned for during Easter vacation. The girls are excited about this chance of a life-time trip.

Teachers of these classes have many things planned for the 1976-77 school year. They are trying to make the classes interesting, so the students will enjoy learning to speak their nationality, and learn their background.





FAR LEFT: In Mrs. Izydorek's room there are many posters and charts displaying Polish culture. Cindy Ashmore seems interested in finding out about them.
ABOVE: Trying to translate what they are reading in Polish are Barb Resmer and Kim Weitek.

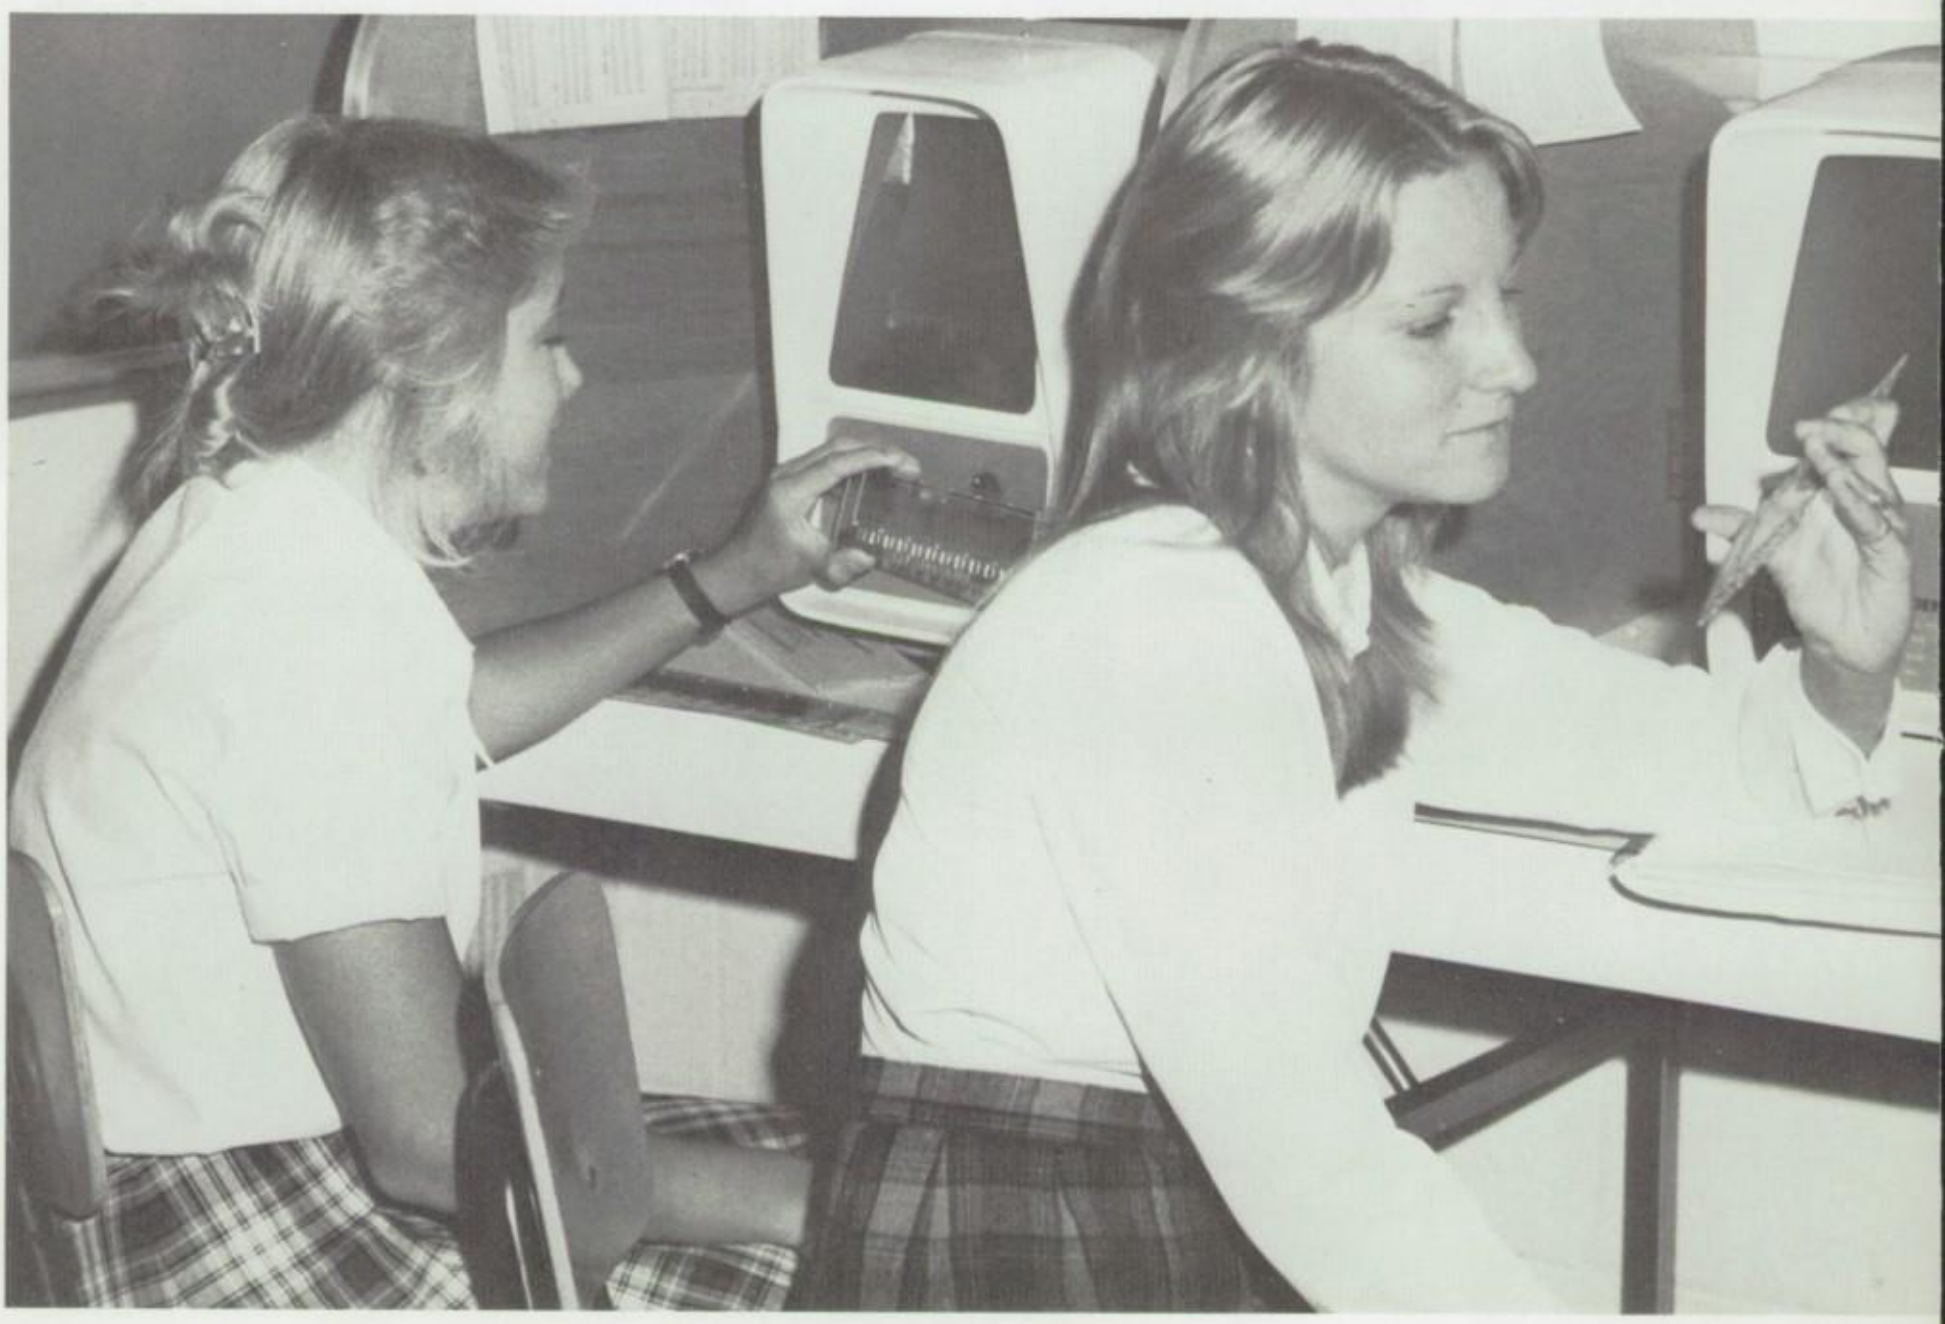
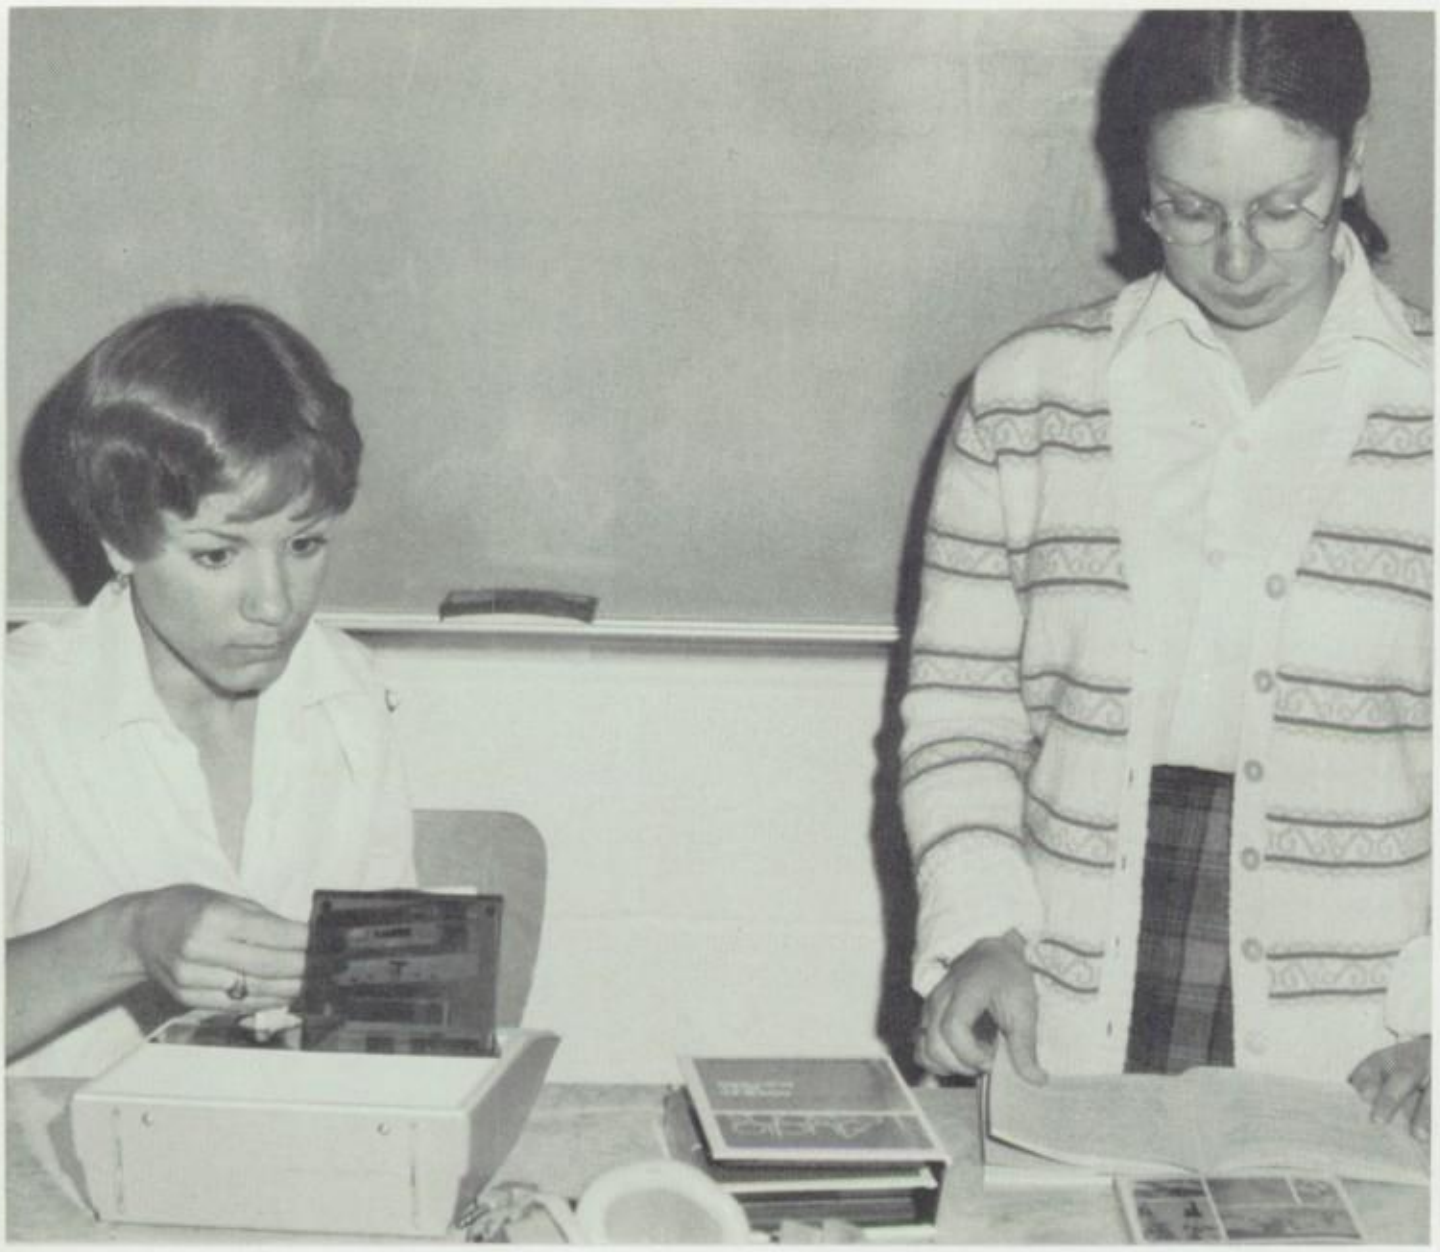
Reading and Speech class improve ability

Words and phrases can be turned into sentences. These are important elements for communication in today's world. Reading and speech classes learn to express themselves effectively many various ways.

The Developmental Reading class helps to improve the student's reading ability by using many kinds of audio-visual equipment and projectors.

In the Speech class, the students are taught to speak effectively. As they are learning the basics of speaking in public by making several speeches, the students also develop poise and confidence.





READING AND SPEECH: Sister Mary Edith, Linguistics, Devemlopmental Reading; Mrs. Cathy Jo Johnson, Speech, Debate, Forensics; Mrs. Josephine Strasz, Linguistics.

Regina reflects love unto God, as well as neighbor

We may sometimes wonder how reflections can be associated with Religion. At Regina, we learn to reflect our love not only unto God, but on our neighbor as well.

Regina's religion classes are a bit different from other religion classes. For example, the Death and Dying classes help you to understand death and they help you lose the fear sometimes associated with death. Teen-age problems help the Freshmen deal with problems sometimes associated with life. This prepares them for challenges in life and future years at Regina, in class and outside of class.

Religion at Regina isn't only expressed in class, but also in the corridors, by the lockers, in the cafeteria, and most important, outside of school. This is what is experienced at Regina; to express and show religion rather than memorize.

RELIGION DEPARTMENT, TOP ROW: Miss Phyllis Moser, (Chairman), Teaching Religion, Christian Worship, Christian Womanhood; Mrs. Carol Kosnik, Death and Dying, New Testament; Mrs. Jane Gleason, Christian Morality, Teen-Age Problems. BOTTOM ROW: Sister Mary Benilda, Art of Christian Living; Miss Carol Codd, World Religions, Old Testament, Teen-Age Problems; Mrs. Josephine Strasz, New Testament, Teen-Age Problems, Christian Morality.

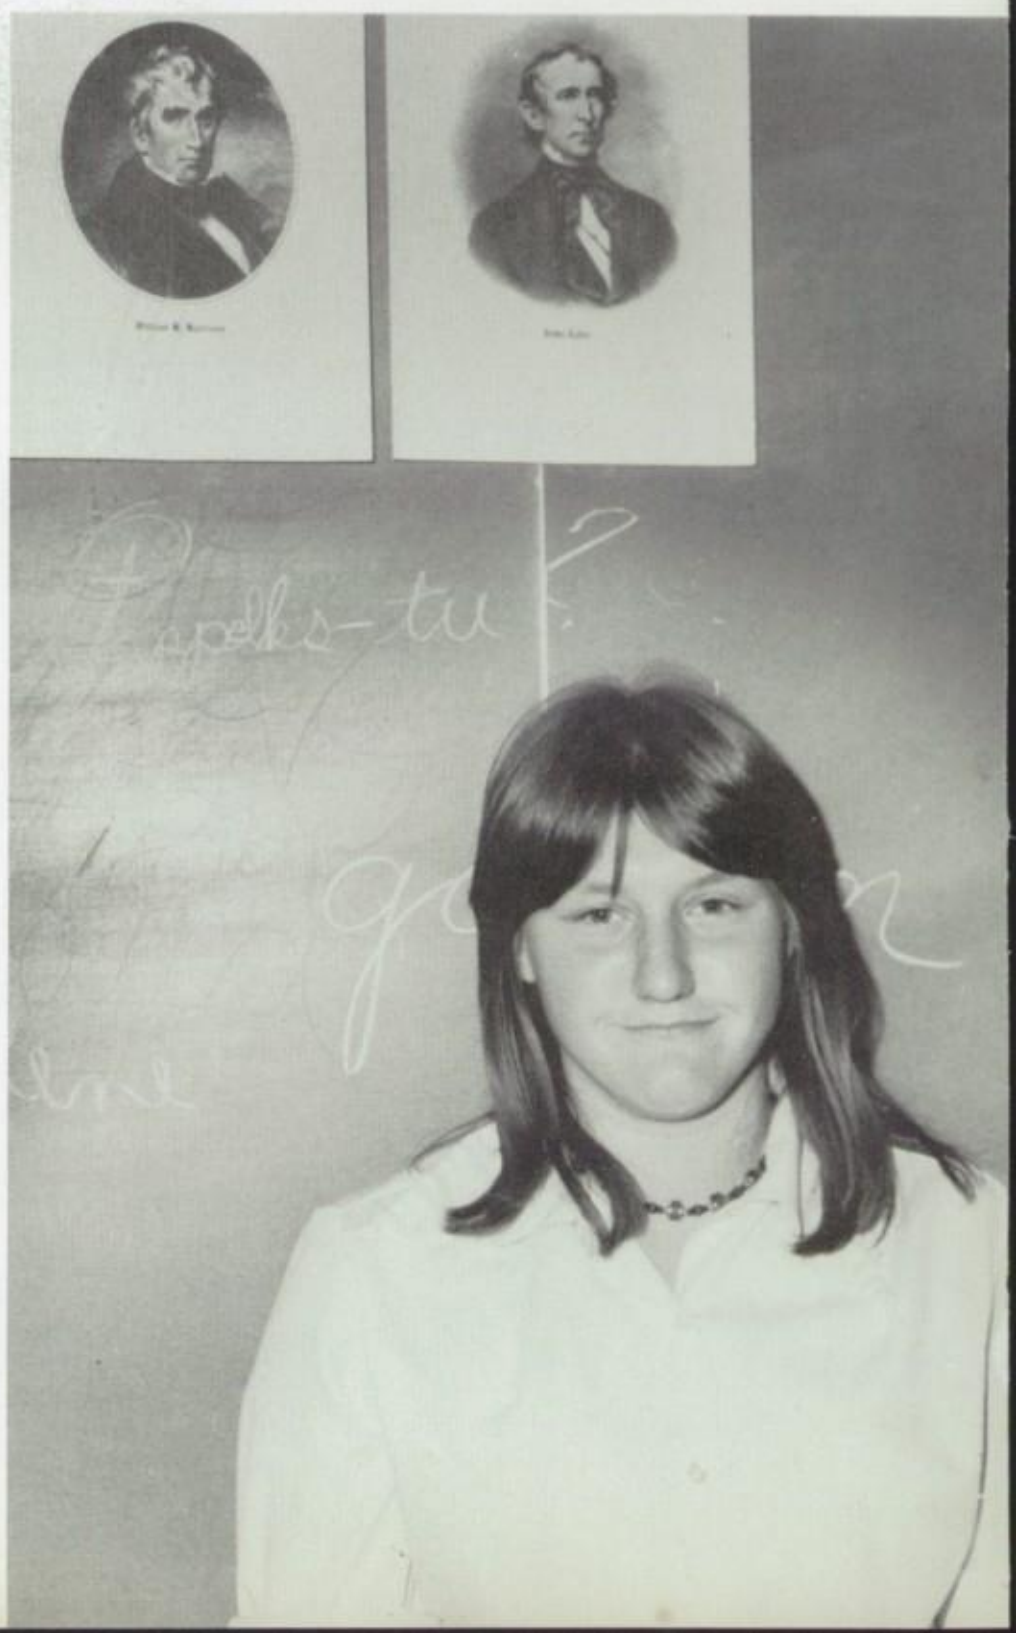
Opening the doors to roads before us

Foreign countries, American cities, the complexities of the mind. All of these are parts of Social Studies. The Social Studies area offers the chance to actively participate in the world around us. This year, Regina went even a few steps further by allowing students to vote in a mock election. If traveling is your idea of a good time, the Close-Up program offers a trip to Washington D.C. So, with all of the great things going for you and much, much more, why not join in the fascinating world of Social Studies?



SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT, TOP ROW: Sister Mary Beata (Chairman), Michigan History, World History; Miss Flora Pelino, Sociology, Government, Psychology; Mrs. Christine Norris, Early American History, Modern America. BOTTOM ROW: Miss Judith Moscotta, Psychology; Mr. Angelo Silva, Century of Progress; Miss Mary Ann Cipkowski, Century of Progress.

BELOW LEFT: "Stonewall Jackson" remains unequaled, as Jackie Kolanowski tries to imitate him in "Century of Progress." "Stonewall" she isn't, but maybe she could win the "Face of the Year" Award!

ABOVE: Lisa Delor, Kellie Kossek, and Anne Gaca hang campaign stickers for the election of 1976.

BELOW: What a shock! Linda Eineichner has made the startling discovery that she's truly a schizo! Psychology can be surprising.

Big news about math: more students enroll in advanced classes

What's this? More students who are interested in elective math classes?

That's what Sister Terence, who is Chairman of the Math Department, is quite enthused about. She said "There is an increase in enrollment of the advanced math courses." She also hopes to introduce the students to the metric system. There is one new teacher in the math department. She is Sister Gretchen. She previously taught at Marymount H.S., which is located in Ohio.

It seems to me that all of this proves that math is not so bad after all!?

FAR LEFT: While using their protractors, Ann Marie Teli asks Linda Torey "I know these are fun to use, but what are the numbers used for?"
ABOVE: Nancy Schausen stops, while putting up a math bulletin board, to look at interesting material on math.

MATH DEPARTMENT (LEFT); TOP ROW: Sister Mary Terence (Chairman), Pre-Calculus, Math III, Honors Geometry, Algebra; Mrs. Kathryn Johnson, Honors Algebra, Basic Math; Sister Gretchen, Algebra, Geometry; Mrs. Helena Izydorek, Geometry.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT: Sister Mary Blandine (Chairman), Biology I, II, Medical Office Assistant; Miss Nancy Gaipa, Chemistry, Physical Science, Physics; Miss Rosanne Szalka, Biology I, II, BSCS.

ABOVE RIGHT: Do you know the full volume or capacity of your lungs? Jackie Langell and Anne Hill are operating a lung action measurer to determine theirs.
FAR RIGHT: Learning totally about George's body parts is extremely puzzling, but Linda Musto, Susan Wroblewski, and Mary Martin try to cope with the challenge.
BELOW RIGHT: Ask Kathy Vitella or Lorie Tremblay what Chemistry is all about, and they'll say "lots of experiments and calculations."

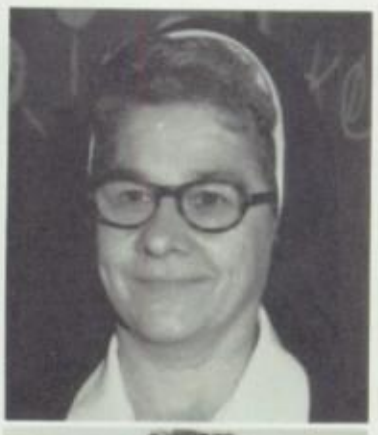
Science promotes sharing and unity

SCIENCE (Si' ans), na. knowledge of facts and laws arranged with an orderly system: Science is proven knowledge; that is, know-how that can be validated and communicated to various people. B. a branch of such knowledge: Biology, Chemistry, Physics I, BSCS, and Human Physiology.

Through Regina's science classes, girls learn to work together, and to see the ever changing developments in science. This is done when students perform labs and experiments, by themselves and in small groups. Science takes many forms in our life, and each in its own way is important to us.

Science enables us to use our minds in making objective decisions. For instance, during an experiment; to why something has happened or why something hasn't happened. Also, science could open many career opportunities to students following graduation, such as nursing, medical office assistance, or a scientist. The most important thing though, is that through science we learn how life begins and carries on.



A healthy way to prepare careers

Were you ever on the other side of a hypodermic needle? Not the side receiving it, but the side that's giving it? Well, this is one of the things that students do in the Medical Office Assistance Class. Along with the class students memorize new terminology which is needed as they take their first step into the medical career.

Following the route of success is a healthy way to prepare your career. Along with this route of success are the social workers and speech therapist. Because of these departments — the student has the opportunity to express herself both physically and mentally.

FAR LEFT: Sr. Florence, Mrs. Barbara Eichstedt, Speech Therapist, and Ms. Elizabeth Parravano, Social Worker, discuss what the future holds.
ABOVE: A group of seniors are getting Mr. Bell's opinion if Powderpuff was a success.
BELOW FAR LEFT: Donna Lozon tries to find the answer to a chemistry problem.
LEFT: Sue Wojkiewicz is ready to inject a needle. Who does she have in mind?
NOTE: Mr. Bell is the School Psychologist.

Business classes: ideal for planning of careers

If you ever walk down the 300 wing you will hear noises. It's the pupils, busily typing their work. At Regina there is a very fine Business Department. It consists of Typing, General Business, Accounting, Business Filing, Shorthand, Business Law, and Gregg Notehand. These courses prepare students for their careers in business, by learning stenographic skills, and teaching the basic economics. To help the students develop behavior and fine patterns for their future is one of the goals of this department. Some newly introduced subjects are Gregg Notehand and Business Law. Gregg Notehand is a personal use system taught to academic students who learn to take notes rapidly and easily. Business Law provides basic information regarding problems of the individual as a citizen, consumer, and employee. Emphasis is placed on preventive law.

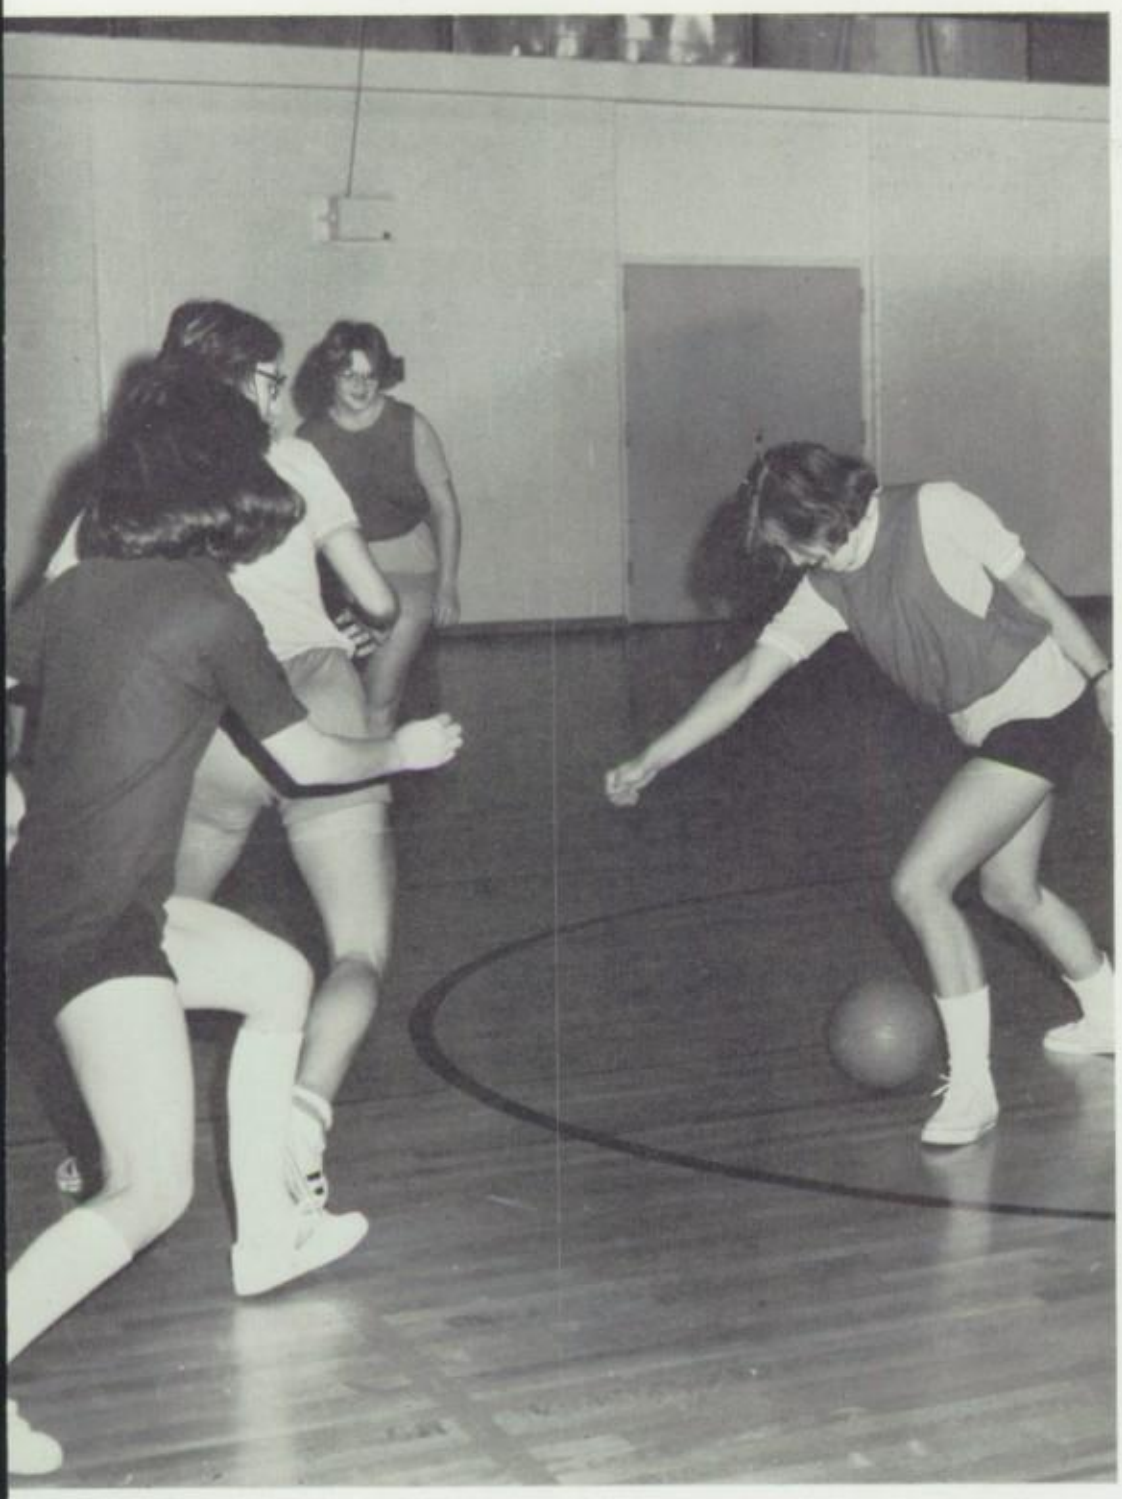
BELOW LEFT: Busily typing are these girls, who are hoping that they might have a future in their business careers.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT: Sister Mary Thaddea (Department Chairman), Personal Typing, Medical Office Assistant, Typing II, Business Filing; Mrs. Susan Monterosso, Shorthand, Typing, Gregg Notehand; Mr. Angelo Silva, General Business, Accounting, Business Law, Typing I.

BELOW: Kim Geldhof successfully kicks the ball through Sue Reedy and Grayce Ciolino.
BOTTOM: "And a one, and a two . .." Even Lawrence Welk would have counting sit-ups.
RIGHT: "It's only a game", they explain to Kim Geldhof. But the look on her face spells pure misery during gym class.
FAR RIGHT: Is Nancy Schausen trying to move the ball with her foot or her hand?
BOTTOM RIGHT: Barbara Resmer invents a new dance that looks vaguely like the "bump".



Phys. Ed. Dept. offers new set-up

If you pass the gym this year, you may notice a few new things. First of all, the Phys. Ed. Dept. has a new addition, Miss Jan Kuhagen. Miss Kuhagen transferred from St. Ladislaus High School.

Second, gym classes have a new set-up. Instead of having class every other day for a full year, there is class every day for a full semester.

Some of the activities the girls participate in this year are: soccer, basketball, football, volleyball, and floor hockey, just to name a few.

The main objective for the Phys. Ed. Dept. this year is to help the students develop physically as well as intellectually in the educational process.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: Miss Diane Laffey, (Chairman), Phys. Ed., Health; Miss Janice Kuhagen, Phys. Ed.; Mrs. Lorraine Kasper, Health.

RIGHT: "Telephone Service isn't too good these days," says a member of the Nursery School, patiently waiting for a friend on the line.
FAR RIGHT: Chocolate milk is one ingredient in Diane L'Esperance's recipe, as she is inventing tempting dishes for her classmates.
ABOVE RIGHT: "Keeping them busy and happy" are Debby Gases's thoughts as she is showing the Nursery School students a book of numbers.

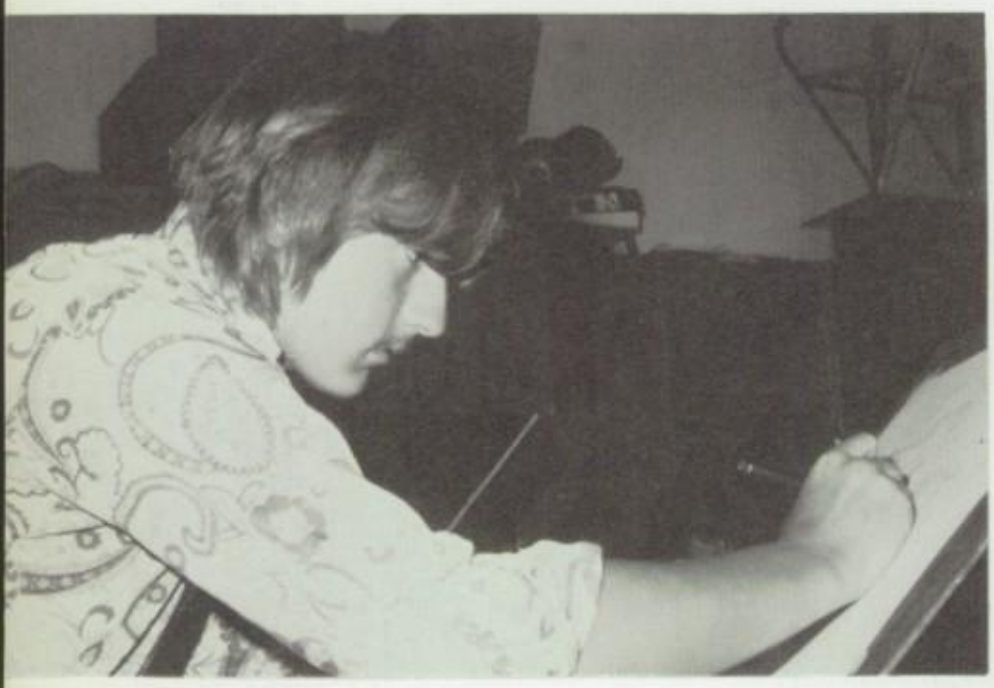
Home Ec: learning, growing, and loving

"Food — Glorious — Food!" It may be food, but sometimes it's not too glorious. But as they say, "practice makes perfect." This year the food class is experimenting with various kinds of food. They have made breakfast as well as the extremes of supper and dessert.

Some of the other "Mother Nature" electives include Family Living, and Child Development. These courses are offered to give girls a more knowledgeable outlook on society. Clothing I and II are designed for the economical woman who wishes to create her own fashions.

Child Development class is working on the nursery school. Activities are being planned for the preschoolers to keep them busy during the week. The nursery school is teaching the girls to relate to children, and prepare them for the future ahead of them.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT: Mrs. Elsa Smith (Department Chairman), Family Living, Consumer Economy, Child Development, Home Furnishings; Miss Susan Tremblay, Clothing I, II, Foods I.



Mozart, Van Gogh would enjoy these!

If you're ever walking down the 600 wing, and you hear the singing of beautiful voices like angels above, don't be surprised to discover that they're Mrs. Granger's own angels from her choral group, singing their hearts out, for an upcoming choral presentation.

There is more to art than just drawing or painting! There is also a serious side to art which should be taught to enjoy the real fine arts and great artists.

Mr. John Giordano, art teacher for Regina and Notre Dame, tries to bring out that idea to his students.

'Unsung Heroes': Who are they?

What kind of an award would you give the nun who sits in her office counting money every day? Even though the money is not hers, the Student Council gave her "The Richest Nun In the World" award. If Sister Irmina didn't collect tuition every day, teachers would not get paid, this yearbook would not exist, and Regina would not be the fine high school that it is.

The unsung heroes of Regina High are the men and women who get to do the "dirty work." At RHS they are better known as Fred, Rosie, and Joe and his assistants. You very seldom see them "sitting down on the job." They are usually quite busy doing things like mopping floors or cleaning the halls.

ABOVE (FACES): Mr. Joseph Pompeo, Maintenance Engineer; Mr. Frederico DelGreco, "Rosie", Maintenance Assistants; Sister Mary Irmina, Tuition and Fees Manager; Sister Mary Rosamund, Clerical Assistant for teachers and administration.
ABOVE LEFT: The floors are so shiny at Regina that we wonder if Rosie used "Mop 'N Glo" on them.
LEFT: "Fred" displays his strong muscles to the weak photographer, making a great impression on all who see him?
ABOVE: Sister Irmina checks the tuition checks that will now make the existence of Regina possible.

Cafeteria, library— there's always help

The "Galloping Gourmets" are returning to Regina's Cafeteria once again. The "nuns" who slave in the cafeteria kitchen are always on the ball, helping keep the cafeteria full with "scrumpdileicious", great tasting food.

All this "scrumpdileicious" nutrition keeps the girls' brains striving for more information about everything and anything. Always on hand to help are the efficient Sisters who work in the library, always pulling material in and out of the files, shelves, and other facilities.

SENIORS

Four years have gone by,
and so have we,
I can still remember back
from that first year,
And I'll never forget the way things used to be.
But now I'm walking down that aisle to the end
of my high school years.
And I turn, look, and walk away from that closing door.
As I walk away I think to myself;
How much fun we all had together, how many tears we shed together.
But most of all the life we led together.
Life will go on, I guess,
but in a different way.
Nothing will ever be like those high school years,
TOGETHER . . .

1977 Senior dreams live on

Gina Amara

"A million old thoughts will fade away . . ." We'll forget many things of our high school days, but the Seniors of 1977 will always remember the important things. Things that proved our class unified: Brian Piccolo, green on green, a sunny day in L.A., accept me . . .

"A thousand true friends will live and die . . ." The comfort our big sisters in 1974 gave us. The people we know as friends, those with whom we laughed and cried.

"The days and the years will go streaking by . . ." Frosh Induction, Sophomore Day, Rings, Powderpuff; events that are over but remembered.

"So long ago and so far away, but a dream goes on forever . . ." Our love for one another has grown, we're one together; a class that has loved, shared. We've learned to live our lives in unity, and in that unity we leave you to continue our dreams.

A million old thoughts will fade away
But a dream goes on forever,
I'm left standing here, I've got nothing
to say,
All is silent within my dream.

A thousand true friends will live and die
But a dream lives on forever,
The days and the years will be streaking by
But the time has stopped within my dream.

We all have our every day hopes and fears
And you'll find no exception in me,
But that doesn't get me through a sea of tears
Over life's biggest tragedies.

So long ago and so far away
But my dream lives on forever,
I guess I believe that I'll see you one day
For without it there is no dream.

So far away and so long ago
But our dream lives on forever,
And how much I love you, you'll never know
Till you join me within my dream.
And how much I need you, you'll never know,
Till you join me within my dream.

Run.
Breathe the wind that frees
your spirit.
You are young, Little Sister.
You are carefree. Be as you are now, for time passes as a leaf in the wind,
It eludes you.

Live.
You have the opportunity to be you.
You are older, you know more,
and yet so little, growing Sophomore.
Your life moves onward, so hold close to you the moments that mean so much.

Fly.
As a bird who escapes and is free, the future lies waiting for you, Junior.
Another year and the skies are yours to conquer.
Fly with time on your wings,
and do not hurry to grow older.
Stay young. . .the years fly too quickly.

Love.
Be free, grow strong, your future is ahead of you.
I envy you, who have time . . .
Catch the leaf in the wind,
Grasp the memories.
Don't let anyone clip your wings, but conquer the world that you won . . .

Silver & Powder Blue
THEME FROM MAHOGONY
78

Do you know where Jrs. are going to?

We will follow the silver brick road to a land where yellow woodstocks fly, over a garden of powder blue carnations, with baby's breaths in the background. When the sun comes up, we will remember the "Babe", and she will shine in us forever. As we proceed further, we want others to remember our poem.

"Please don't walk in front of me, I may not follow. Please don't walk behind me, I may not lead. Just walk beside me and be my friend." As the silver brick road comes to what we might think is the end, we will find at the end of the rainbow a pot of shimmering rings over a harvest moon, which says "it is only the beginning . . ."

Little sisters, '76 now Sophs of '77

Sophomore days are here again, and there are a few requirements this year for the Class of '79. Ziggy was left by Big Sis, but you have to choose your class colors, a special flower, that certain motto, practice bothering freshmen, and last but not least, you must remember to be "rowdie". Such is the life of a sophomore. Sophomore Day will be the day to show the rest of the school what an outstanding class you have. All of the candids on this spread are from Sophomore Day, 1977. On this day in early February, the Class of '79 performed a skit to introduce their newly selected class colors, song, motto, and flowers. Based on "The Gong Show", the Sophomores created a humorous panel of celebrities, including Mary Hartman (Sonja Haas), and the Bionic Man and Woman (Kim Wietek and Barb Resmer). The host of the show (Ann Marie Teli) asked the celebrities to vote on various acts of talent. Through these acts, the sophomores unfolded their new symbols.

Looking into the lives we began...

Do you remember??? . . . big school, a lot of new people, saddle shoes, new faces, spirit week, lockers, big sisters, scooters, elevator passes, 700 wing . . .? Ten or twenty years from now the Freshmen, Class of '80, will be remembering their first impression of Regina. When we came into Regina, probably the first thing that we saw was what seemed to be a nun riding a scooter. Well, we weren't seeing things. There really were nuns riding on scooters. And we probably got lost in all the different halls. But with the kind help of the sophomores, juniors, and seniors, we really began to feel more at home here. When Freshmen induction came, we felt that we were an important part of the school. Then in the beginning of October we had a Spirit Week. With all the activities we had going on everyday, we were brought closer to the sophomores, juniors, and seniors. We showed Regina that the new class of '80 has SPIRIT too!

"Twenty years! That's quite a long time. So many teenagers have come and gone from Regina. So many lives have started here during those years. There were so many ways in which the graduates turned. I wonder what they chose to do. Some made a turn to success, and others probably did what made them happy in the present, neglecting future happiness . . ."

–Vickie Hannah

"Though the styles and types of fun have changed, tradition will alwyas be here. Twenty years will not ever change that fact. Also, there will always be a little of all of us here."

–Mary Croxon

"What do people remember the most about Regina? What do they tell their daughters and friends? What will you tell yours? Do they remember their friends, graduation night? Do they remember the nuns on scooters and their uniforms? I think they look through their yearbooks with tears and smiles, and that they will always remember the four years they spent here. . .running through the halls talking to friends. They laugh at themselves and say, "How could we do that?" We will always treasure the moments we've spent here . . . especially in 20 years."

–Julie Domzalski

S. C. forms togetherness with happiness!

What group would you go to if you had a problem about grades, ideas for Showboat, and a brain storm idea for dress up day? You would go to Student Council . . . Naturally wouldn't you?

The purpose of Student Council is to bring the students, faculty, and administration closer together for better cooperation.

There would be no doubt whether Regina has spirit or not if you were around during Student Council Spirit Week and Slave day. Everyone was in on the fun, it was just great! Also, Student Council had a Halloween Party and a Candy Sale. The profit from all activities goes to purchase equipment and new facilities for the school.

2 Clubs of Service — they're here at Regina

At Regina, there are two different groups that serve the students. When certain activities pop up, the Library Aides, and the Christian Fellowship Club are always around, ready to lend their helping hand.

The Library Aides Club deals mainly with the library, and providing the school with an efficient library. On November 14th, the date of Regina's Open House, the Library Aides had tours of the library in order to give a better understanding of it to the future freshmen and their parents. In February and March of this year, the Aides sponsored the magazine drive. All the money that is earned from it goes right to the school for buying new AV material. The Aides collect the used textbooks at the end of the year to be resold at the beginning of the following semester.

For the student who wishes to gain a more spiritual way of life, there is the group called Christian Fellowship. These girls are interested in bringing God to the students. They do this by the Masses celebrated on all Holy Days. When there is a Mass, the entire Regina community can participate and grow together spiritually.

Health and Science are out for answers

There are many facts yet to be learned, and questions yet to be answered from the fields of Health and Science. But two clubs, the Allied Health Careers Club and the Science Club, are out to hunt for the facts and find the answers.

A few ways to find the answers to the questions for the Allied Health Careers Club is to tour surrounding top hospitals. Also, they have films and speakers on medical careers that its members are interested in.

The Science Club is raising money by plant and bake sales for a trip to Chicago's Science Center. They plan a visit to the Zoo and camping in the Spring, plus many other activities.

Even though the members of the clubs are not professionals, their enthusiasm and interests show the way. One day they will be out helping you and the community.

Drama, Fine Arts: the stage of stars

Lights! . . . Camera! . . . Action! . . . CUT ! ! And so goes another day of rehearsal for the Notre Dame and Regina play, with off tune voices and stumbling feet. But, somewhere in that group is some hidden talent and, with a few months of practice, they should be shining out their best to make a broadway musical a hit!

The moderator of the Drama club has planned candy sales and other budget building projects to help put the play on the road. The profits will go for costumes, sets, and materials for the production of the play.

So with a new moderator, a new constitution, and a new outlook, the Drama club is off to a great year.

Fine Arts is also on the go, visiting the theatre and plays of the finer arts of society. They hope to make better progress this school year with a new moderator and officers.

'Scepter' — best news of today!

Did you ever think of being a reporter, knowing all the real facts of news before anyone else, knowing the truth and not the gossip? Sound interesting?

The Journalism class is learning just that: getting real facts by interviews, and snooping around for new and interesting stories around the community.

This class, with its "nose for news", gives their best in writing articles of factual interest for the Regina school newspaper, "The Scepter."

By developing their own pictures, the Journalism class has a better chance of presenting as many people as possible. This also helps the class to produce one edition every month.

Whether it's human interest stories, articles about what's happening around the community and school, or just plain comics, the "Scepter" is enjoyable once a month reading for the entire student body.

Crown staff reflects on making yearbook possible for us

"My layout is not working out. I don't know if I can make the deadline. I cannot fit these long names in my cutlines. My life supply of erasers is almost used up. I have too many errors in my body copy. I can't begin to count them. I do not have my pictures picked out yet, and I have four minutes to decide which ones I want to use. One pica, two picas, three picas, capitals one pica, punctuation one half pica. Help! My deadline is tomorrow!" These are the common cries that come from the ninety students who are in the three yearbook classes. These classes meet each day for one semester. Each student produces a two page spread including the layout, headline, body copy and cutlines. Through this assignment, and others, the yearbook classes learn a part of journalism they never knew before. At the end of the year, there is personal satisfaction from a yearbook well done.

Clubs that care are the clubs that share

A toy drive, adopting an orphan from overseas, aid to the missions, tutoring. These are just a few of the many activities and services sponsored by the Human Relations Club and the National Honor Society, two organizations at Regina.

With aims to help those throughout the world, the Human Relations Club adopted an orphan from a foreign country. Money, raised by various activities and projects, is sent overseas each month to pay for the child's food, medical care, education, and clothing.

In addition to this, the Human Relations Club is responsible for the monthly mission collections.

Unlike most clubs and organizations at Regina, the National Honor Society members are carefully selected. In order to become a member of NHS, one must excel in the areas of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. It is indeed an honor to be selected as a member.

With a genuine concern for those living within the community, NHS sponsors a toy drive every year at Christmas. These toys, after being wrapped and tied, are distributed to needy children who otherwise would receive no gifts.

The concern of the National Honor Society for those within the school is limitless. Tutoring is just one way that they show how much they care.

Debate, Forensics, Student Congress: speaking for us!

How many Americans do not understand politics? How many of us are confused when election time comes around? Not our qualified students! Our students are now aware of the governmental procedures which occur in the Congress. The qualified girls are given the opportunity to experience actual meetings of our state Congressmen in legal procedure meetings. Their experiences include acting as Lobbyists, Senators, Representatives and Press Reporters.

Debate and Forensics are two organizations which help students to develop the confidence, poise, and ability to express oneself logically. It also gives the students an opportunity to excel and experience tournament competition for us, as well as themselves.

Who has Spirit? GAA and Bowling

Have you ever gone to a basketball game or any other athletic activity and noticed that the crowds from the other school haven't any spirit? No enthusiasm? Well, not right here at Regina! Keeping sports alive and promoting spirit's what the Girls Athletic Association, more commonly known as "GAA", is all about. One of "GAA's" main purposes is developing responsibility, and helping in running Regina's athletic program. The club gathers every month and plans various sales drives, and even tops off the school year with their great annual athletic banquet.

The bowling team is another high spirited group of girls. Each week they get together at Centennial Lanes to struggle and compete against various schools. They are a lively group who gather for much fun and enjoyment, plus try to win a victory for our school.

Regina's Moms and Dads give their help

Regina has two terrific groups of people: the Moms and Dads Clubs. If it were not for them showing their interest in Regina, the school would not have as many activities going as well as it does today. Both clubs sponsor the Friday night Bingo's which help to support the school. When chaperones are needed for a fund raising event, who is there to help? It is the Moms and Dads Clubs. Some other activities where their needed help is freely given are: Powderpuff, Dances, Corn Roast, Freshman Tea and Tour, Bake Sales, and Christmas Boutique, plus many more activities.

Twice a month these clubs hold their meetings. Their board meetings are every first Tuesday of the month, and their general meetings are the third Tuesday of the month. Always wanting to see new faces at their meetings, the Moms and Dads welcome any Regina parents.

Clubs are learning of the world that's awaiting them soon

Ethnic food festivals during lunch, visits to the Old World Market and ethnic restaurants . . . these are some activities that highlighted the Foreign Language Club. Actually, the name is misleading. The club is concerned with sharing their cultural ideas and experiences. They try to understand the cultures which underlie the languages, instead of trying to speak them.

While the Foreign Language Club is learning about other cultures, the Close-Up Club is busy raising money for the Close-Up Seminar Week in Washington, D.C. The students will spend one week in Washington, D.C. attending seminars under the direction of officials from government. These include Congressmen, Presidential Assistants, State Department Officials, and Domestic Advisors. Through these seminars, the students are able to study, first hand, the function of our American Political System.

Goodbyes

When you look in the mirror, you see an image
which is a reflection.
But you focus your attention on only one aspect, the aspect of life.
There's so much around it that is paid no attention to,
and then when it's gone and forgotten,
we can never go back and see it again, because it will never be there again.
We are a reflection of what has been given to us.
How we use it, when we
use it,
Why we use it, where we
use it,
and who we use it towards are all part of us,
and the way we act.
Though we will forget some days, there are still many others that are too good to be forgotten!
There is just so much that we've shared with each other that will remain
a part of us as each day of our lives go on.

–Barb Lee

Cheerleaders of '77 lead the way

"Come on, now you guys, get up, quit talking, and let's practice!" You might hear this quite a bit if you happen to be walking through the cafeteria and lobby during the usual cheerleading practice.

Both JV and Varsity cheerleaders have put enough effort into the promotion of spirit in Regina during this school year. Team work brings the girls and the school closer together. They are working hard and are excited about what they are doing.

But do these girls ever get a break? The usual schedule for most of the cheerleaders goes like this: tryouts, summer practice, games, play-offs, competition, and back to tryouts again for the coming year. Sister Gretchen (the cheerleading moderator) has really added a lot to both squads. She has much confidence in them and is hoping they prove to be successful in their own time of competition.

Losses and Victories aren't what makes JV so unique from others

The J.V. Team of "76" was one to be very proud of, in spite of their record of losses and wins. They had an enthusiastic coach, hard-working team, and heaps of school spirit cheering them on. Disappointment from the losses help the team to become more determined and very close. The victories were ones to be appreciated, becaues the team worked together as if they were one. Although the J.V. team didn't win a championship or go to the playoffs, through the ups and downs the J.V. stayed together and obtained a unity uniquely, and entirely their own.

Saddlelites fight to be number 1!

It started out to be an exciting season, and it stayed that way till the end. Saddlelites began their long season by defeating last year's Class B state champs, Warren Woods, 48 to 42 in a non-league game. The team accomplished several goals this year. For the first time in 6 years, Regina beat their number one rival: Dominican, in front of a capacity crowd at Regina. This win put them in first place in the toughest division in the Catholic League. They didn't stop at winning the division but went on to be a finalist in the Catholic League play-offs. Though the season up to this point was a successful one, it ended abruptly, losing in the first round of the Districts by one point to L'Anse Creuse.

LEFT CORNER: A winning team is a happy team. The Saddlelites relax and enjoy the game, securing another victory.
FAR LEFT: Guard Mary Peralta puts everything she has into this shot. But to her, it's just a routine two points.
LEFT: Coach Laffey is in a serious moment, discussing the strategy to the five starting seniors.

TOP: All a winning team needs is enthusiasm, confidence, and teamwork. Regina's Varsity Volleyball Team has all three: Coach Janice Kuhagen, Patrice Wronski, Casey Court, Maureen DeLave, Kellie Kossek, Sharon Stawarz, Beth Kuczera, and Cathy Sind.
TOP RIGHT: The Regina J.V. Volleyball Team's hard work really showed this season: Coach Janice Kuhagen, Lydia Bruglio, Ann Campana, Josephine LaFata, Angela Campana, Colleen Patterson, Karen Schaugg, Patty Kent, Mary Wancour, Jackie Godell, and Eileen Carlin.
ABOVE: Getting it over the net is Ann Campana, with Jackie Godell ready for back-up support.
ABOVE FAR RIGHT: "Practice makes Perfect", as the Varsity proves before one of their games.
RIGHT: Coach Kuhagen relays the strategy to the J.V. Team in a familiar "huddle" fashion.

RHS new coach brings new ideas to Volleyball team

The 1977 Volleyball team has acquired a new coach, her name is Miss Jan Kuhagen. Miss Kuhagen is planning on making a few changes this year: some games are to be played at night, and plans are being made to fill the stands with students supporting Regina's volleyball teams.

Practices are tough, and the players achieve their best efforts through sore muscles. Volleyball is a fast sport, and there is no margin for error, so practice makes perfect. The team learns the proper way to bump, set, spike, block, and serve because each of these plays are important parts in acquiring a victory. Above all, the girls learn good sportsmanship, which helps their personal growth.

RIGHT: Teammates Annette Eichorn, Anita Noble, Sue Wroblewski, and Marge Zaziski anxiously await to see the final outcome of their total scores for the game.
ABOVE RIGHT: Heading right into the gutter, but suddenly curving, is the bowling ball of Debby Brozich.
CENTER RIGHT: As usual, these 3 freshmen in the Bowling Club are "pigging out". Debby Brozich, Sue Krauzowicz, and Heidi Wroblewski show us how.
BELOW RIGHT: Really now, does it take all five of these sophomores and freshmen to keep score?
FAR RIGHT CORNER: Peering out from behind a closet door are the Officers of the Bowling Club: Sue Konwinski (President), Roseanne Bonaldi, (Vice-Pres.), Donna Luzenski (Treasurer), and Marya Valentic, (Secretary).

Have some time to spare? Go bowling!

Bowling is really a striking sport and club! Trying to spare some details; the club meets every Tuesday at Ark Centennial Lanes at 3:30. The league has a real ball!

You get a great thrill as your average rises week after week. At the end of the season, a banquet is held to share the excitement of winning teams and high scoring games.

The girls on the league have shown that the league is no place for sleepers, and there is no pinning you down once you get started!

RIGHT: "So what are you waiting for, Halloween?" gripes Carin Okragleski at her opposing pitcher.

Second Place proves Baseball is stronger

Baseball is a sport for amateurs as well as big professionals. Regina has proven this by grabbing second position in last year's baseball leagues.

Regina's team is always ready, willing, and able to win. The opposing team usually becomes quite nervous when a Reginite steps up to the batter's box. The team has the spirit, enthusiasm, and energy that other organizations are lacking. This gives the team a large advantage over their opponents. What about the future?

As long as they hold onto their energy and enthusiasm, the team will hold up the excellent record Regina has held in the past, and will probably make some history of their own.

Regina Blue Angels march on to victory

Again, for the seventh year, the Blue Angels Drill Team walked off with the State of Michigan Competition Championship. The competition was held in Sault St. Marie on June 25, 1976. After two more months of hard work, the team then sets out for the National Competition on Rondalls Island, New York. The team met up with some tough competition from around the U.S., and came up with a strong fourth place beating out the others.

The Blue Angels have traveled various places such as: Petoskey, Ohio, Grand Rapids, Lansing, Louisiana, and even Illinois and Canada.

The training is hard, but the memories of good times and everlasting friendship makes the practices ever worthwhile.

BELOW LEFT: "American Section" is the center of attraction as surrounding flags salute them.
FAR LEFT: Blue Angels' flags start a new maneuver, as the American Section waits anxiously.

Track and Field run for victories

T . . is for the time spent doing laps around the building. R . . is running at the CYO competitions. A . . is giving all that you have got to get up and over that high jump bar. C . . is constantly trying to add an extra little inch to your broad jump. K . . is for the knots in your tennis shoes and your stomach before the 100 meter race.

Add this, together with spirit, determination, and much more to a group of quick running Reginites, and you have an equation that equals Regina's Track and Field Team. With this kind of enthusiasm, 10 girls qualified for the All-City Tournament of 1976. Nice going, Team!

BELOW: A bird? A plane? Superwoman? No, it's just Beth Rybak jumping a hurdle.
BOTTOM: Laura Staffhorst concentrates on getting "up and over" that high jump bar.
BOTTOM LEFT: No time for conversation when Clara Heffner and Beth Rybak are running a relay.
FAR LEFT: The team of Boyle, Heffner, Godell, and De-Lave charge ahead for a victory.
LEFT: Lori Piotrowski comes in for a landing.

Regina splashes its way towards victory

Don't get wet! But if you're part of Regina's swim team, how can you help but get wet?

This year's swim team was off to a splashing start, with team work that will help them do very well this year in swimming competition.

This is only the third year Regina has had a swim team. The first team was assembled in 1975, and each year the team grows bigger and better.

Regina has a really fine swim team it can be proud of. They've really "got what it takes"; skill and spirit. Keep on strokin', Regina!

ABOVE: "Keep pushing"; Jackie Godell's motto as she demonstrates the breast stroke for us.
FAR LEFT: Everyone watches with excitement as the team is timed for speed and accuracy.

Tennis Team's racket is building bodies, victory

Wonder Bread helps build strong bodies, so does being on a tennis team. Regina's tennis team is known for doing more, though. Under the direction of Mr. Silva, the team members acquire winning techniques to use against unsuspecting opponents. Although the team is only a few years old, they do their best to gain victories in their spring and fall seasons, and even practices.

Being on the tennis team does more than build strong bodies, though. It promotes team effort and spirit, coordination, friendship, laughter, and a winning attitude. Now, wouldn't it make sense to quit eating Wonder Bread and join the tennis team, instead?

ABOVE: "Pow! You're going straight to the moon," threatens Angela Manto.
LEFT: With a perfect swing and a good position, Beth Kuczera can't miss on a high score with this hit!

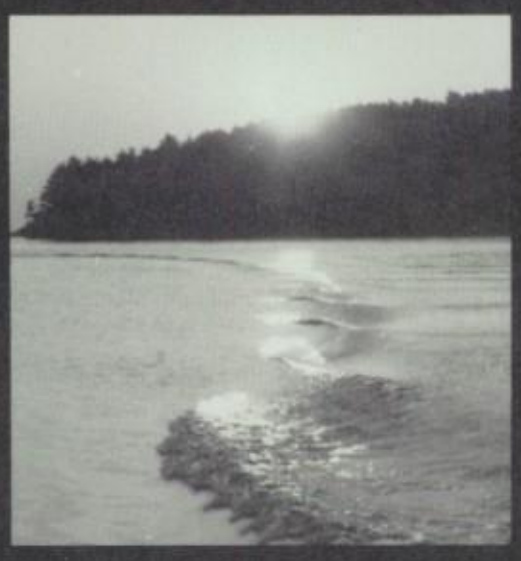
Junior Life



REMEMBER . . .
Remember the times of happiness and times of sorrow,
Remember the times of defeat
and times of victory,
Remember the day you met
your big sister?
Remember your first Powder-puff and how you thought that the Seniors were crazy,
Remember your first day here
as a freshman?
Remember the Harvest and the Christmas Balls?
Remember Corn Roast and your Freshman Induction, Remember all the tears that came with the good-byes
at Graduation . . .
But most important of all,
Remember the smiles, love,
and friendship we shared.

Graveyard ghouls, ghosts, and goblins?

Did you ever enter a Cemetery three days before Halloween? Did you ever walk among the deceased and not be afraid? The girls at Regina High School did just that October 28th, at 8:00 p.m. at the Student Council Halloween Party. Among those walking through the gravesites were cannibals wearing grass skirts and holding a wicked looking spear, floating vampires, werewolves, ghosts, and freaks. Even "Pride and Price" braved the world from beyond. They won prizes for their Courageousness.

But the fun of the Halloween Party was climaxed with the great refreshments and prizes throughout the evening.

ABOVE FAR LEFT: Being the only male teacher in Regina isn't enough for Mr. Silva. Now is he practicing to become a priest?
BELOW LEFT: Among the interesting visitors were the Marx Brothers.
FAR LEFT CORNER: The Seven Dwarves walked out of their story book to come and visit the Halloween Party . . . with Snow White not far behind.
ABOVE LEFT: How much luck can a guy get (Kim Handloser)? Having two beautiful women on each side (Cindy Lesnau and Kathy Grekowicz) is too much!
LEFT: What a combination! These girls (Debbie Gase, Sue Anderson, and Bonnie Nahorodny) suddenly have nothing in common.
ABOVE: Kim Monacel, Diane Schypinski, and friend display some of the many costumes that were at the Halloween Party.

'Mean Green' Spirit invades our school!

On October 15, 1976 the Seniors got together in the auditorium to show the rest of their school how much more spirit they have than the rest of Regina.

It was once again the "Powderpuff Rally", and the Seniors were out to prove to us that they "have what it takes" to beat Dominican.

All of a sudden green creatures came running down the aisle. What were they? It was hard to explain with green hair, jeans, and green shirts. On their shirts it told their name; "Rah-Rahs" of course. Then the moment came when numbers were called off, and voices screamed. It was time for the Powderpuff Team. They did some of their exercises and called up the coaches, who gave them their support. Then the Cheerleaders gave their support to the school by doing their routine to "Be True to Your School." Then lights flashed, and the Prince was named. Bab Macker was the lucky one.

Even when the auditorium was empty, the spirit of "Powderpuff '77" still lingered on.

ABOVE: The Powderpuff Team show their excitement as they come onto the stage.
TOP: The "Mean Green Team" show us their daily warm-up exercises.

In Powderpuff '77', real talent prevails

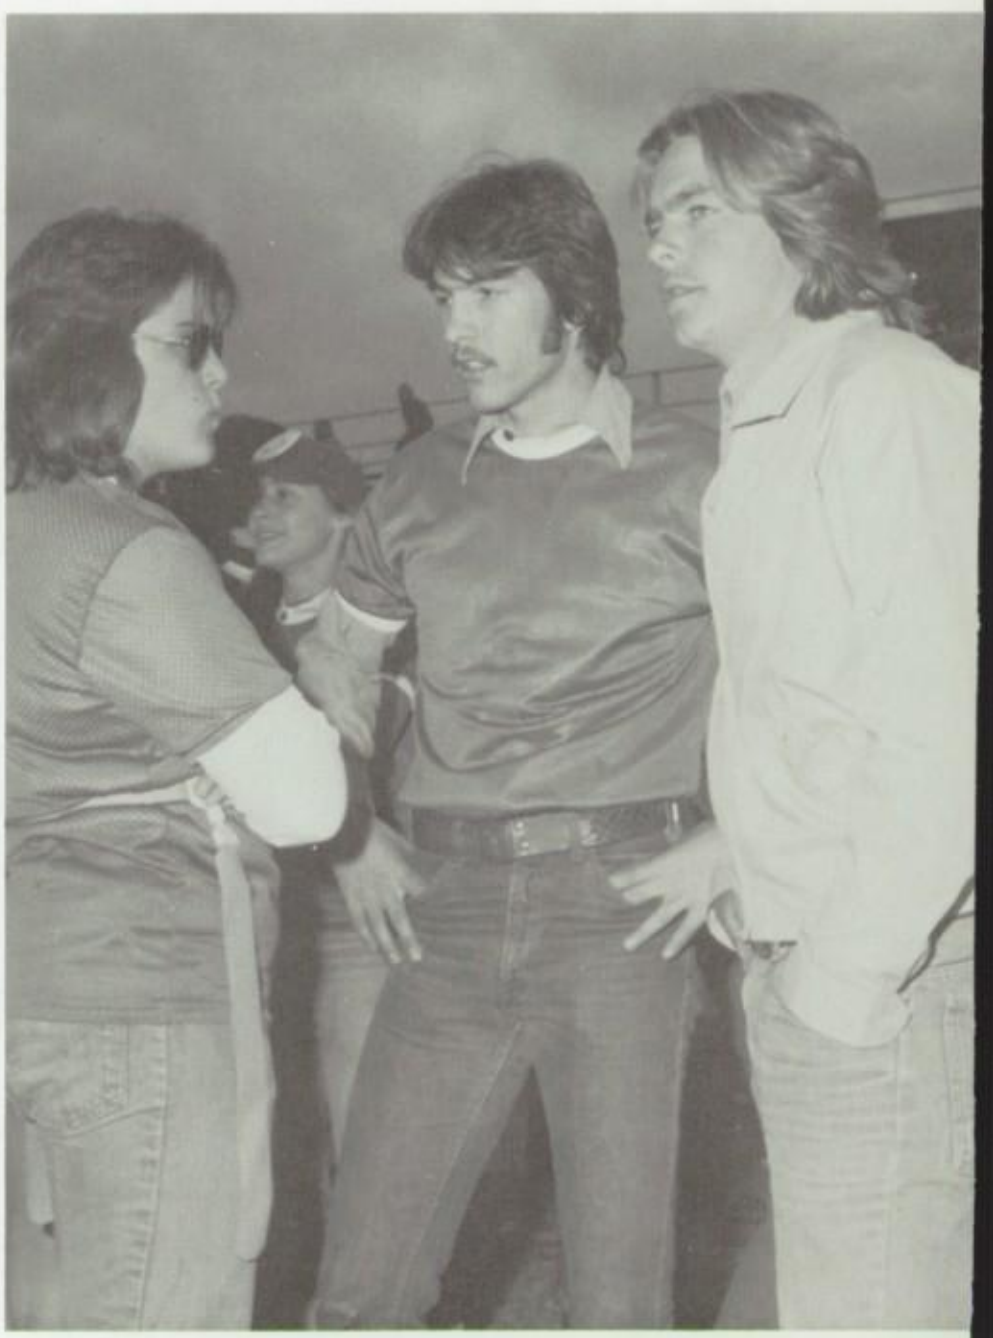
Their moments of waiting came to the end on October 16, 1976, when the Powderpuff Team of 1977 kept up the true tradition of their patron Brian Piccolo by giving their best, to the end.

The practice began in August, and two months of blistering pain followed.

On the day of the game the weather was just right for football, and the crowd helped prove it by creating one of the biggest turnouts in Powderpuff history at Regina.

The team played against Dominican at Notre Dame field, and even though the score was 0-0, it was clear that Regina ranked Number 1 among both teams out on the field.

The game may be over for the Powderpuff Team of 1977, but there will always be good memories of hard work, bruises, 6 inches, crabbing, and of course, Bob, Kurt, Tim, and Bill.



ABOVE FAR LEFT: Leslie Wing talks over the next play with coaches Bob Niedbalski and Tim Smith.
FAR LEFT: A key play is set up as Linda Eineichner passes the ball off to Mary Peralta.
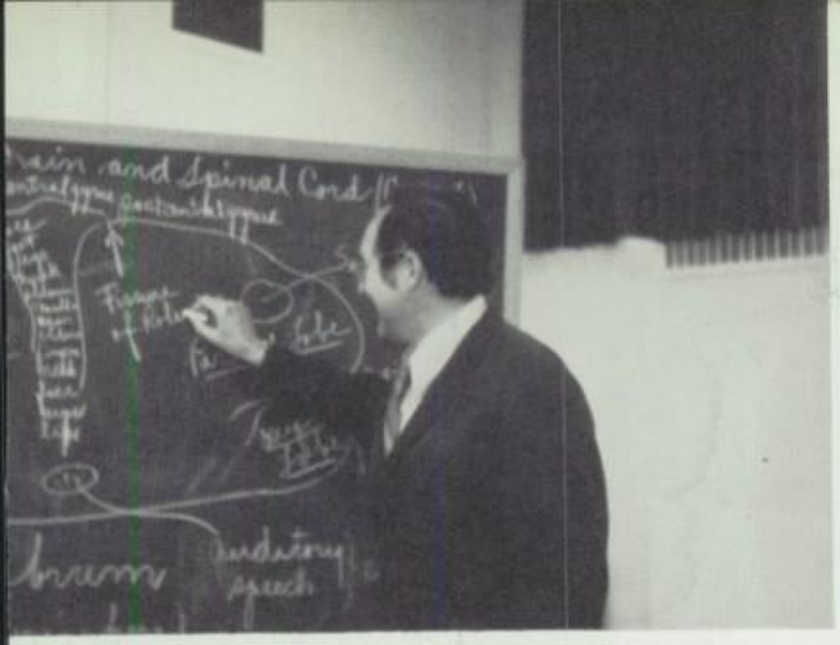
ABOVE CENTER LEFT: Laurie Genord brings something exciting to the game by making a big interception.
LEFT: Our whole school supported the team, as did the Juniors with their encouraging sign.
ABOVE: Teresa Strussione, Sue Thomas, and Nancy Greiner, three of the "Rah-Rah's," cheer the team on in their green wigs and outfits.

Santa Claus is coming to town!

It was a beautiful day in Harper Woods, Michigan. The snow was falling like little, light pieces of cotton. The entire student body of Regina High School was being put into the Christmas spirit. Why was everyone finally getting rid of their bah-humbug moods and were, instead, preparing for a white Christmas? . . . Because RHS had its annual Christmas program that took all of the Scrooges in the audience and turned them into Santa Claus.

The choral group, with their beautiful Christmas outfits, sang everyone's favorite Christmas carols. Their big attraction was singing "The Twelve Days of Christmas". They did a great job.

Regina High's Student Council and Dominican High's Student Council, together, promoted both schools' Christmas enthusiasm!! "Together", both high schools portrayed the friendship that is now growing by doing a Christmas skit. The skit was shown at both RHS and DHS; it was a total success.



Experience is captured by Regina High students

Clinical Medicine Biology is a course in advanced biology comprising a study of the functions and malfunctions of the human body. It is presented at Bon Secours Hospital (Grosse Pte.) to students of Austin Catholic Preparatory School, Regina High School, and Our Lady Star of the Sea High. Mr. Melvin Swovick, a member of Austin's faculty, is the coordinator and instructor of this class.

The class meets each Saturday morning for two semesters in the Family Practice building of Bon Secours Hospital. The class is composed of lecture for the first hour, followed by a short break, and the remainder of the period is spent in laboratory. The lectures are provided by Mr. Swovick, and Bon Secours staff doctors. First hand experience is gained by working in the hospital laboratories with modern equipment.

Ring Ceremony filled with spirit, Harvest filled with excitement

November was a month of fascinating experiences for the Junior Class. The 7th marked the event of Ring Ceremony, where class rings were blessed and presented to the excited Junior Class. A reception followed for all the attending guests.

On the 24th the Juniors and their escorts were off to the Polish Century Club, for the traditional Junior Harvest. The Juniors danced to the sounds of Grand Circus Park as they played to the theme of the evening, "Beginnings." The attending Juniors had a wonderful time, and will always remember this event as a high point in their Junior year.

TOP LEFT: Danielle Rousseau and her escort, Greg Criner, take a rest from the dance floor, and talk over a glass of punch.

SONGS FROM

"Not many people can remember back to 1957. How would you reflect back on the past twenty years? Of course, you would reflect by comparing the hairstyles, the way the girls dressed, the popular singer and top song, and the hit dance of the year. What would be most interesting would be what the people of our age did for enjoyment back then.

Maybe we should reflect a little more on the past, and try to change a few things. It would be a lot easier for a lot of people."

MODERN YEARBOOK Company

And now, the editor's page that isn't the editor's page

Twenty years from now, this yearbook will be stashed away on some shelf or in some attic, perhaps along with the remnants of prom corsages, yellowed "Showboat" programs, and a faded tassle from RHS. In 1997, perhaps a yearbook staff will be eagerly flipping through these pages, laughing at the amusing hairstyles and clothing, looking at our moment in time with apparent nonchalance. In creating this anniversary issue, the staff and I have come to realize how important moments of Regina's past are . . . the faces are different, the clothes are strange, but the story is still the same. Time cannot change the problems and pleasures of a teenager's life, even though time is passing. It's just a matter of who the moment belongs to that makes it unique.

This is usually the Editor's Page, and I have taken the liberty of snatching it away because this year, I have to say good-bye to a few people with whom I have shared this moment. I knew them as sophomores in a "special" yearbook class, and for two more years their talents were put into every word, picture, and page of Regina's yearbook. Their graduation will mean the end of a wonderful moment which will always be precious to me.

CHARITY ANNE DORGAN, a talented and dependable editor whose creativity has graced the "Crown" with poetry and art, has put so much love and care into her job that I doubt if I will be able to do a book without her. FAITH THOMPSON and MICHELLE KARAM, Assistant editors, are both "Jacks of all Trades" and have filled each gap and any missing element that was needed on every page, from cropping pictures to drawing lay-outs. With sadness, I will see them graduate from Regina. To all of them, I want to say Thanks for the three years that they have given, with much time and effort, to Regina's yearbook.

On the subject of thanks, to list all those we are grateful to would take too many lines, and we just don't have the space. MODERN YEARBOOK COMPANY, CRAINE'S STUDIOS, AND KNAPP STUDIOS (Underclassmen mugs) are only a few. All of the teachers and staff at Regina, who politely agreed to be photographed in the middle of an important class with their "ugly" outfits and "messy" hair because we needed their picture RIGHT NOW certainly deserve a big hand! Of course, the cooperative administration made things much easier when we were working on the book. In the classes, there were several students who gave more than their share. To them, I say thank-you for a job well done.

In another twenty years, I hope all of us remember and enjoy the moments we've spent here by looking through this Crown. Perhaps, through these pages, time can stand still for just a minute as we link the past and the present together in the unending story of our lives.

To CHARITY, FAITH, AND MICHELLE: I'm sorry I took your page, and I hope your future is everything you have dreamed of. And when you are feeling lonely for the old yearbook room, just remember that famous motto . . . "One inch is worth . . . six picas"?

Sincerely,

Mrs. Chabot

Try hard never to forget,
Store all experiences
Save every moment
Lest nothing be remembered,

And if nothing is salvaged
You have no reflection.
